Marion Police Chief Justin Cornely (left) and Raymond Furnis, acting manager of Wise's Supermarket, inspect the spot on the roof of the grocery building where three burglar suspects were working Saturday night until police arrived. Two of three Cleveland men being for investigation were captured immediately and the third was picked up about three hours later when he thumbed a ride with three city policemen. 3 Men Surprised on Store's Roof Held in Burglary Try Charges are expected to be filed this afternoon or tomorrow against three Cleveland men accused of attempting to break into Wise's Supermarket at 879 E. Center St. Saturday night.

Two of them were captured in the act of jumping from the roof of the building and the third when he hitchhiked a ride with three plain clothes policemen. They are:

Roger Harvey Herman, 24, arrested at 11:45 p.m. Saturday just after he jumped from the roof of the building onto the sidewalk in front of the store along E. Center St. He had started to run but stopped when Patrolman Wayne Shepard fired a shot into the air.

Michael Rocco Zasa, 25, who fell from the roof of the building, striking his head against the sidewalk. He was taken to Marion General Hospital with a deep cut on the side of his face and a possible skull fracture. He is listed in "good" condition at the hospital today.

James A. Lorenzo, 22, who was taken into custody by Police Chief Justin Cornely, Capt. Virgil Campbell and Patrolman Shepard when he thumbed a ride with them as they drove an unmarked police car along Rt. 30-S near Caledonia shortly after 2 a.m. Sunday.

The capture of the three men was made possible by the alertness of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Kirby of 147½ Reed Ave.

Mr. Kirby saw a trio of men near the rear of the store building shortly after 11 p.m. Saturday night and called Mrs. Edith Roberts.

Patrolman Shepard stopped at the front of the building and stood under a canopy extending over the sidewalk while Sgt. Dyke walked toward the rear of the building.

From their vantage point on the roof, the three men apparently saw Sgt. Dyke approaching the rear of the building and ran across the roof to the front where Herman leaped from the roof to the sidewalk, a drop of 10 feet or more, and then started running.

Patrolman Shepard raised his gun in the air, shouted halt and fired in the air just as Zasa landed on the sidewalk in front of him.

Seeing that Zasa was injured, Patrolman Shepard told Herman to lie down beside him and whistled for the sergeant.

LORENZO remained on the roof for a short time, police said, and then while Sgt. Dyke and Patrolman Shepard were busy at the front of the building, went to the edge of the building along Reed Ave. and dropped over the side to the sidewalk and ran off to the west between the houses on Reed Ave.

Police later tracked him west and then north across E. Center St. and the railroad tracks to the vicinity of the McMillen Feed Mills where his tracks disappeared.

Meanwhile, a woman on Reed Ave. near E. Church St. came out of her house and told police about a car three men had parked beside the First Church of the Brethren at Reed Ave. and E. Church St.

Checking on it, police found it was registered to a Mrs. James Lorenzo in Cleveland and immediately disabled it and called for a wrecker to tow it to the lot behind City Hall.

Later, at about 2 a.m. Police Chief Justin Cornely, Capt. Virgil Campbell and Patrolman Shepard were driving around checking the east end of the city when Capt. Campbell suggested they drive out Rt. 30-S to the east on a hunch they might find the third man.

AS THEY NEARED Caledonia, Lorenzo thumbed a ride from them. The three city policemen soon determined that he probably was the third would-be burglar and placed him under arrest on an open charge for investigation.

Meanwhile, police had taken Zasa to General Hospital for treatment of his injuries and had placed Herman in the city jail to be held for further questioning.

Police Chief Justin Cornely said today that the least the three men will be charged with is the possession of burglary tools.

The chief said today that it had not been determined as yet whether any of the three has a criminal record but said that Lorenzo told them he has no record.

Air Officials Still Hunting Discoverer I

Tracking Points Pick Up Sporadic Signals Believed From Rocket

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—The Air Force believes its Discoverer I rocket may have gone into some kind of orbit—and is simply having trouble raising its voice enough to let the world know for sure.

Authorities say tracking stations have picked up "sporadic signals" tending "to confirm that an orbit has been attained." Further checks will be made, they say, to try to pin down the uncommunicative rocket.

Launched Saturday

Discoverer I, the first space vehicle aimed into an orbit which would carry it over both the North and South poles, was launched Saturday from Vandenberg Air Force Base, 170 miles north of Los Angeles.

A Navy ship 900 miles south of the base received faint signals from the bullet-shaped missile shortly after it was fired. Then, for hours, there was nothing.

Officials speculated something may have gone wrong with the radio equipment in the 1,300-pound projectile.

Sunday night the Air Force Ballistic Missile Division reported: "Additional study of data received for a nine-minute period after lift-off supports the accuracy of preliminary information about launch trajectory and orbit injection. Tracking stations have since picked up random signals on the frequency of the Discoverer's radio beacon, which approximates the predicted position of the satellite."

Feels Orbit Attained

All this, the Air Force said, tends "to confirm that an orbit has been attained."

"Attempts to track the satellite are continuing," the announcement said. "Additional contracts should assist in defining the precise orbit."

Of the random signals received so far, authorities said, the most reliable were picked up by tracking stations at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., Anet, Alaska, and Vandenberg.

The Air Force said the information at hand suggests Discoverer may be circling the earth about once every 96 minutes. It said the preliminary data indicate the rocket is about 146 miles from the earth at the point of its closest approach and 558 miles away at the farthest point.

The frequency at which Discoverer's radio was supposed to broadcast has been kept secret. This prompted criticism from some scientists, who say that withholding such information may have prevented trackers from locating the rocket.

Power Failure Reported

Army's Missilemen Call Off Lunar Probe Effort

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Army Missilemen went back to work on their lunar probe rocket today after failing Sunday night to launch a satellite past the moon and into a solar orbit.

The 76-foot rocket, Juno II, stood poised in floodlights for a half hour and the firing crew had progressed to within minutes of target time when the shot was postponed. No reason was given officially, but it was learned that a power failure caused the decision to scrub.

New Effort Stated

Another effort could be made tonight, Tuesday or Wednesday while the moon is, in favorable proximity to earth, 221,000 miles away. After that, a month's delay would be necessary until the moon again swings into the correct position.

WAITING FOR AUTO TAGS. Marionites lined up at the auto license bureau on S. State St. this morning after 1959 plates went on sale. The new tags, which have red letters and numbers on a white background, must be displayed on all automobiles and trucks by midnight March 31. Auto license bureaus are located also in all villages in the county.

County Approves Annexation Vote

A petition for annexation of some five square miles of Marion Township was certified to the Marion County Board of Elections today by the county commissioners.

The annexation issue will be placed on the ballot for voters in the four Marion Township precincts. A majority vote is required for passage. A board of elections tabulation lists about 2,100 voters in the township.

ACCORDING to law, the commissioners can take no action on the annexation petition until after the results of the election are known. At that time they either may reject it or approve it.

The petition for annexation initiated by the city, would increase Marion's size from about 11 square miles to 16 square miles.

The proposed area, for annexation is bounded on the north by the Williamsport Rd. (County Rd. 161). The south boundary is an east-west line bisecting Barks Rd. (County Rd. 138).

THE AREA is bounded on the west by a north-south line about one-half mile west of the Producers Livestock Cooperative yards. The eastern boundary would be a north-south line one-half mile west of Pole Lane Rd. (County Rd. 174).

If passed, the Baker Wood Mfg. Co. plant, the Whirlpool Corp. plant, part of the Erie Railroad yards and diesel shops, the new Marion Plaza Shopping Center and the Vernon Heights area would become part of the city.

In the event the issue fails to gain a majority vote at the polls May 5, the city will be prohibited by law from inaugurating annexation of any portion of the area for five years. Residents of the area, however, could still petition for annexation.

Snow Blanket Greets March

Rain Is Anticipated For Area Tomorrow

Winter got one more fling to its credit as February faded from the picture in Marion County Saturday.

The mercury rose to a high of 48, then sank to an overnight low of 29 as 1½ inches of wet snow fell over the countryside through Saturday night.

The temperature got to only 39 Sunday, fell to an overnight low of 24, then was back to 38 at noon today. The weatherman predicts clouds, scattered showers and colder temperature in the immediate offing.

February was another "tough" month in a winter that has already established itself as one of the harshest in many years in this area. The high for the month was the 59 registered on the 10th, while the low was a frigid 2 above zero recorded on the 19th.

All told, 2.50 inches of snow fell, plus an additional 2.47 inches of rain. "Traces" of both elements were noted on several occasions.

Today's high is expected to be 45 and the low tonight 33. Tuesday, with showers the order of the day, may find the mercury registering 42 at its highest point, the weatherman predicts.

Bank Robber Gets $25,895, Flees by Plane

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—A lone bandit held up a branch of the First National Bank and Trust Co. of Hamilton this morning, seized $25,895, raced to the airport in a stolen car, jumped into an airplane and flew away, police reported.

The airplane, a four-passenger Beechcraft Bonanza, belongs to Homer Duff of nearby Lebanon. Whether the plane was being warmed up preparatory to take-off by the owner when the bandit boarded it was not learned immediately.

James Acra, bank auditor, announced that $25,895 had been stolen. An insurance company representative waited to write a check in favor of the bank.

Khrushchev Grudgingly Shifts Stand

Russians Recommend Conferences Be Held In Vienna or Geneva

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union today gave grudging acceptance to a foreign ministers' conference on Germany.

In notes to the Western powers, the Soviet Union said it prefers a summit meeting of heads of government, but is prepared to agree to a foreign ministers' meeting.

Moscow suggested Vienna or Geneva as a site for a foreign ministers' session starting in April, and said it should not last longer than two or three months. Would Include 2 Satellites

The notes suggested that Poland and Czechoslovakia and East and West Germany attend, along with representatives of Britain, France, the Soviet Union and the United States.

The full text of the notes has not yet been formally released. But informants disclosed its highlights while British Prime Minister Macmillan and Soviet Premier Khrushchev were meeting in the Kremlin. They talked for almost two hours.

The Russians did not make a foreign ministers' meeting conditional on any subsequent summit meeting.

This was made clear by a full examination of the note in the original Russian.

Replies to Western Proposal

The Soviet note replied to a Western proposal for a foreign ministers' conference on Germany.

Soviet insistence on a summit conference had been expected ever since the West made its proposal. Khrushchev in his speech last Tuesday made clear he did not think a foreign ministers' conference on Germany would serve any useful purpose, and that the issue of West Berlin must be discussed by the heads of government.

The Foreign Ministry told the ambassadors it would publish the note Tuesday.

Will Stick to Position

The U.S. government has been the chief opponent of a summit conference. The American position is that unless the foreign ministers work out an agreement beforehand, a summit meeting will unduly raise public hopes but will come to nothing.

But Prime Minister Macmillan was reported determined, in his visits later this month to President Eisenhower and French President Charles de Gaulle, to insist that a parley with Khrushchev himself was the only way that might lift the Soviet threat to Berlin.

Cypriots Hear Plea for Unity By Makarios

150,000 Hail Return Of Archbishop; Told To Forget Differences

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Archbishop Makarios got a triumphal welcome home from more than 150,000 Greek Cypriots Sunday after three years in exile. He called on them to cooperate with the island's Turkish minority in the days of freedom that lie ahead.

The political and spiritual leader of the Cypriot majority flew in from London, where British, Greek and Turkish officials worked out an agreement to give independence to the British colony.

In a 30-minute address Makarios told his cheering, shouting followers: "We have triumphed. Today Cyprus is free. Let us celebrate, my brethren."

He urged Greek Cypriots to forget the political differences and bitterness which only last summer erupted into fighting between the Greek and Turkish communities.

"Let us not forget," he said, "that freedom is not just a privilege and right. It is also a heavy responsibility and supreme duty."

"Let us allow no passions or prejudices to intervene. Let us hold out an honest hand of friendship and cooperation to all."

"Especially let us cooperate wholeheartedly and sincerely with

Anti-Trust Indictments Sought

Government Uses New Weapons Against Mob

This is the first of a series by Victor Riesel on the newest federal techniques and activities in the government's latest drive to break up the combine which is using some unions and businesses as fronts.

By VICTOR RIESEL

Cries out of a night-shrouded suburb have pierced through the thick oak doors of a federal grand jury sitting secretly in Manhattan. The shouting came from the cracked lips of a swollen face of a home bound lieutenant of the Ladies Garment Workers Union chief, David Dubinsky. The secret grand jury has been probing the garment jungle since last October—but with a new dramatic twist.

For five months it has heard scores of witnesses brought before it, not by federal criminal experts—but by lawyers of the Justice Department's Anti-Trust Division. Indictments are expected within a month. If there are convictions, racket-busting history will be made.

The Anti-Trust Division will have been able to jail influential mobsters, posing as businessmen, not for a crime against a person or property, but for squeezing legitimate business out of the field. If the grand jury indictments hold up, then the crime syndicates' businessmen will go to jail for depriving honest merchants of workers, raw materials, transportation facilities, mechanical equipment, customers—or all of these at once.

There will be other indictments across the country in the western meat rendering industry, in the hotel and restaurant field,

Herbert Petrich Named Easter Seals' Chairman

Herbert A. Petrich of 800 Uhler Rd. will lead the annual Easter seal campaign being conducted this month in Marion city and county. Robert Cunningham, president of the Marion County Society for Crippled Children and Adults, reported today.

Approximately 14,000 letters containing Easter seals will be mailed within the next week to city and county residents. The society seeks $8,000 to carry on its program of financing therapy and equipment for children and adults crippled by any disease.

President of the Berlou Manufacturing Co. and Na-Churs Plant Food Co., Mr. Petrich has resided in Marion since 1939. He is a native of Minneapolis, Minn.

He was graduated from Carleton College in Northfield, Minn., and served in the U.S. Navy during World War II, being discharged with the rank of lieutenant.

Noted Playwright Dies at 70

Services Slated Tuesday
For Maxwell Anderson

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP)—Playwright Maxwell Anderson saw the theater as a great force spreading light into the dark corners of human experience.

He took to writing plays late in life and then plunged into it as a "religious experience." He worked at it meticulously until a few days before he died.

Only a stroke stopped the flow from his pen. He was 70 when he died in Stamford hospital Saturday.

Anderson the man was interested in all the vital aspects of life. His eyes caught everything happening around him. His plays were a testimony to his breadth of knowledge.

Anderson the newspaperman-playwright spotlighted congressional log rolling in "Both Your Houses," which won him the Pulitzer Prize in 1933.

Anderson, the poet playwright, wrote 11 successful plays in verse. Anderson, the realist playwright, wrote the play "What Price Glory?" with Lawrence Stallings in 1924, to show war as something beyond a setting for heroic deeds.

Anderson, the social-conscious playwright, wrote "Winterthur." He called it a "serious indictment of the hysterical justice meted out in the Sacco-Vanzetti trial."

Anderson, the romantic playwright, wrote the tender lyrics to the popular "September Song"—written 20 years ago for "Knickerbocker Holiday."

Anderson married Gilda Oakleaf in 1954. She and three sons survive. Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. at St. Paul's Chapel of Columbia University in New York City. Eulogies will be delivered by author Mark Van Doren and playwright Robert Anderson, no relation.

SAFE DRIVING TIP

Backing into a curbside parking space on a busy street requires a sharp look-out through the rear window for approaching traffic.

Often in crowded districts the driver following you does not know you are going to park, the Chicago Motor Club points out, so be sure to signal him.

Don't forget that when backing into a parking place, the left front fender of your car will jut into the adjoining traffic lane. Wait for an opening before starting the rearward swing.

254 Arrests Made
At Bucyrus in '58

BUCYRUS — A total of 254 arrests was made by the Bucyrus Police Department during 1958. Of these, 171 were for traffic violations, according to the annual report of Chief A. L. Stuckert.

The chief's report, released today, showed that police handed out 6,560 overtime parking tickets, investigated 336 accidents and received 439 complaints during the past year.

The issuance of the overtime parking tickets resulted in the department collecting $2,533 in fines. Of the 439 complaints received, 58 were filed and the remainder dropped.

Of the 171 arrests made for traffic violations, 55 were for reckless driving and 41 for speeding. Thirty-nine persons were arrested for intoxication and 13 on assault and battery charges.

Chief Stuckert said that his department recovered 12 cars stolen here and two others stolen in other cities. Sixty-eight of 70 bicycles reported stolen were recovered.

Some of Us Still Can Get Frostbitten

Apologies to readers who are in warm climates, or in localities where, this year, the worst of winter may luckily be past. Other readers live where the bitterest, meanest, most unpredictable part of the winter is still ahead.

Anyway, with modern transportation, some of us go racing off for winter sports, or business trips, and encounter bitter weather almost any time.

This may way of explaining why I'm writing about frostbite today, even though some readers, I realize, will be sun-bathing somewhere. And I wish I were!

Frostbite is an actual freezing of the tissues, and I think I am safe in saying that in changeable weather there is more danger than in the dead of winter when we all anticipate the risk of going out into bitter weather.

THE WEATHER must be cold for frostbite, of course, but when it is damp and windy besides, the danger is increased. Lack of activity aggravates the danger—nose, ears and fingers are especially vulnerable, in part because they are more likely to be exposed, and partly because they are limited in their activity. This is true even of the fingers, sometimes.

A further factor that I want to mention particularly is the faulty circulation of some oldsters. They are especially vulnerable and should take care accordingly.

As to dampness, this was common in military service when it was known as trench foot or immersion foot.

First sign is usually a prickling sensation. Then the affected part displays a pallor or loss of color, loss of feeling, numbness. There may or may not be actual gangrene. Just remember it is possible.

FIRST RULE of prevention, of course, is wearing warm and loosely-fitting gloves, socks and other skin coverings; keeping the circulation going; keeping dry. Avoid socks with darns or wrinkles which can pinch off circulation in a small area.

If you are out in the open, and get your feet wet, follow the army's advice: Carry extra socks. Take off a wet pair, put on the dry. Tuck the wet ones inside your shirt to dry and warm up. Then change again. Two pairs of socks can go a long way. And the movement of changing from wet socks into a pair that may, in fact, be pretty damp, still helps.

Keep in mind that mittens are warmer than gloves with fingers. In whatever way possible, avoid wind on a cold and damp, or merely cold, day.

IF YOU become frostbitten, the emergency measures are, first, getting normal warmth, and second, avoiding vigorous rubbing which may damage the frozen tissuos. By "normal warmth" I mean temperature no warmer than the body.

In severe cases, a doctor may give drugs which dilate the blood vessels and thus increase circulation. If infection has set in, antibiotics obviously will be required.

But like so many other things, frostbite is better avoided than cured afterward. So watch out for the cold, damp, windy day when you are exposed for a time, especially if you can't keep moving. And if you have any reason to think your circulation is impaired, be especially careful.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Kindly send me a pamphlet for ringing of the left ear.—Mrs. F.R."

Whoo-uh! I play no favorites as to left and right—except politically. (My leaflet on "Ear Noises" is available in return for a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin.)

Why suffer from sinus trouble? Much can be done to help you, and it is explained in my booklet, "You Can Stop Sinus Trouble." To receive your copy, write to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Delaware Voters Ballot Tuesday on School Bond Issue

DELAWARE — Voters here go to the polls Tuesday to cast ballots on a $1,771,000 school building bond issue.

Board of elections officials predict a tight vote in this third attempt by the Delaware Board of Education to produce revenue for a new high school building.

The special election was scheduled after the bond issue was defeated by a narrow margin last November. A 60 per cent affirmative vote is required for passage.

The vote will be taken in 21 precincts, 18 in the city, two in Delaware Township and one in Troy Township. Polling places open at 6:30 a.m. and close at 6:30 p.m.

Airman Keith E. Mandeville, son of Mrs. Laura E. Mandeville of Marion, has completed his initial course of Air Force basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex. He has been selected to attend the technical training course for communication center specialists at Sheppard AFB, Tex. Airman Mandeville is a graduate of Galien High School.

Four Richwood High School seniors recently enlisted in the Marine Corps under the "buddy" and 120-day delay programs which will allow them to graduate before leaving for recruit training. They are:

Robert W. Penry, son of Paul D. Penry of Prospect and Mrs. Doris L. Gilliam of near Richwood; Gary E. Stevens, son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Stevens of Richwood; Bryce E. Kater, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth N. Kater of near Richwood, and Robert L. Everly, son of Mrs. Gladys I. Miley of near Richwood.

They will leave for Cleveland June 4 to be sworn in. From there they will go to Parris Island, S.C., for 12 weeks of recruit training. After recruit training, they will be sent to Camp Lejeune, N.C., for four weeks of advanced infantry combat training and then they will be given 15-day leaves home.

Four Marion and area soldiers recently participated with the 4th Armored Division in a large-scale 7th Army field training exercise in Germany, the Army reported. They are:

Pfc. James E. O'Hare, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred O'Hare of 455 Oak St.; Pfc. Samuel L. Lessley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lamont Lessley of 510 Girard Ave.; Specialist 4 Gail L. Laughrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther L. Laughrey of near Richwood, and Pfc. Terry A. Strawser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd J. Strawser of Delaware.

Thomas H. Smith, son of Mrs. Marian E. Smith of Bucyrus and husband of the former Miss Joanne Buckley of Newark, recently completed a seven-month officer's basic course at the Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va. Lt. Smith is a graduate of Kent State University.

Douglas A. Tron, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Tron, of near Marion, recently was promoted to the grade of first lieutenant (temporary).

Lt. Tron entered the service Aug. 16, 1957, and after pre-flight training at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., was transferred to Wright-Patterson Air Force Base. He is assigned as executive officer, programs and budget division, directorate of supply.

Lt. Tron is married to the former Miss Sonja June Giles, of Marion. They have one daughter.

Specialist 4 Ralph Stidham, 20, of Richwood, recently participated in a joint Army-Air Force maneuver conducted in the Canal Zone, after being airlifted from Ft. Bragg, N.C., with other members of the 82d Airborne Division, 501st Infantry.

Regularly assigned as a gunner in Co. A of the 501st at Ft. Bragg, he attended Richwood High School before entering the Army in July 1956. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lee Stidham, of Richwood.

Donald F. Harigle, fireman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Harigle of near Bucyrus, is serving aboard the minesweeper USS Venture on a six-month cruise with Mine Division 81 in the Mediterranean. The Division left Charleston, S.C., in January and while in the Middle East will operate as a unit of the U.S. Sixth Fleet.

Pfc. William C. Miller, 23, whose wife, Rosemary, resides near Powell, recently qualified as expert in firing the M-1 rifle in Germany.

A jeep driver in the 34th Armored's Headquarters and Service Co., he entered the Army in December 1957, completed basic combat training at Ft. Knox, Ky., and arrived in Europe last May. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester L. Miller of near Caledonia. He attended Cardington High School.

ADAH

"And Lamech took unto him two wives: the name of the one was Adah..." —Genesis 4:19

Adah was born in the early dawn of Biblical history, in the copper-stone age.

As a girl she probably lived in the fields, where she helped tend the flocks and to cultivate small fields of grain and vegetables.

Only a short time before had man learned to put fire to work for him. But the pottery wheel was as yet unknown, and the youthful Adah carried water from the river or the spring in a woven wicker vessel covered with clay.

Nevertheless, Adah must have been a sensitive, artistic dreamer, for she was later to become the mother of two great arts, through the sons she would bear—Jabal and Jubal.

Surely the dream that took shape in Jubal's mind as he fashioned the first musical instrument to reproduce the tone of God's creation, was born in the girlhood reveries of his mother.

It was she who first heard the melody of rain as she took shelter beneath the green foliage of some great tree. Afterward, standing beside the oxen as they stretched their necks and dilated their nostrils to inhale the fragrance of the wet fields, it was Adah who groped toward expression of the gladness in her heart.

When her sons were born, she gave them the beauty she had saved from these early years; the look of fruits slowly ripening and swelling beneath the big dark leaves; the burial of the seed in the earth, and its resurrection in the form of tender stalks and ripening grain.

It was not from his father Lamech that Jubal inherited the symphony of wind and water and leaves that played in his head. The song of Lamech was a song of death: "I have slain a man to my wounding..." But Adah sang of life.

Atlantic Cable Break Fixed, AT&T Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The transatlantic telephone system of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. was back in normal operation today, after the repair of a cable break that created an international incident.

The company announced completion of the repair Sunday.

The cable system links the telephone networks of the United States and Canada with those of Britain and eight European countries.

The cable was broken Feb. 21. A boarding party from the United States Navy radar picket ship Roy O. Hale searched the Soviet trawler Novorossisk for 70 minutes Thursday in an effort to find if the ship had cut the cable.

Lt. Donald Sheely said he found no firm evidence of any intention to cut the cable, and believed the most probable explanation is that the trawler cut it accidentally.

The Soviet Union called the boarding "premeditated provocation."

The break was 1,000 feet under the Atlantic, about 190 miles east of Newfoundland.

Cable ships in the area of four Western Union cables broken last week were hampered by rough weather, but were expected to complete their work today.

Joan Isler Is Awarded Scholarship in Prospect

Joan Isler, a freshman at Ohio State University, has been named recipient of the David E. Black Scholarship Award made annually to a Prospect High School graduate on the basis of outstanding scholarship during the first semester of college.

Announcement of Miss Isler's selection came today from Clyde Forry, Prospect superintendent. He said she will be presented $100. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Isler of near Prospect.

The scholarship is awarded annually by John Black of Cleveland in honor of his father, David E. Black, who was superintendent of Prospect School about 1910.

Will Discuss Merger

NEVADA — School consolidation will be discussed Tuesday night at a meeting of the Nevada Board of Education in the school auditorium. The public is invited to take part in the discussion, board members said.

Even experienced cooks will be delighted with the idea of making hollandaise sauce ahead and holding it in a wide-mouthed vacuum jar until serving time.

Trainload of AEC Material Derails, 125 Persons Flee

DANVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Some 125 persons, evacuated Sunday after a freight train carrying chemicals from the Atomic Energy Commission was derailed, were allowed to return to their homes in nearby Geneva early today.

Explosions, apparently set off by the impact of the crash, caused fires that burned out of control in the 28 derailed cars of the southern Kentucky community because they didn't know what the cargo contained and feared further explosions.

An AEC spokesman at Oak Ridge, Tenn., said the chemicals were highly inflammable but not radioactive.

Two railroad employees were hospitalized after inhaling chemical fumes and five firemen were treated for exhaustion.

Irish Theatrical Group Plans American Tour

NEW YORK (AP) — An acting company from Dublin known as the British Repertoire Theatre is to make its American debut here in September. The troupe has recently been touring Australia.

The fall bill is to include one-act plays by Yeats and Synge, plus folk singing and dancing. After the New York stand, a tour is planned to other parts of the country.

Hope of Quick Pact Fades in Utility Strike

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A strike against the Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co. moved into its second day today with hope of an early settlement diminishing.

Negotiations between the firm, which supplies power to 23 central and southern Ohio counties, and Locals 1466 and 822 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, broke off after Sunday a few hours after the old contract expired and 1,300 workers left their jobs at 57 installations.

Service is being maintained by supervisory personnel.

The union, which is asking for a 10 per cent wage increase for all workers, has turned down a company offer of a 3 1/2 per cent increase. Besides the general wage boost, the union is asking an additional 10-cent an hour increase for linemen.

William Hamer, business agent for Local 1466, said the linemen work with more hazardous voltage today than they did in 1944 when the last evaluation of jobs was made.

Present pay scales range from $1.69 to $3.28 an hour.

Gwen Verdon, dancing star of the Broadway hit musical "Red-head," had to wear steel braces when three years old. Her legs were handicapped by rickets.

Three School Employees Present for Conference

Three local educators are attending the 14th annual conference of the Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development this week in Cincinnati.

They are Cecil W. Gabler, assistant to the superintendent of Marion public schools; Miss Philomena Gregg, elementary supervisor, and Miss Violet McBride, principal of Vernon School.

Mr. Gabler is a member of the conference evaluation committee, and Miss Gregg of the publications committee. Miss McBride is serving on the hostess committee.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt preferred that his special trains go about 35 miles an hour. President Truman preferred 75 miles an hour. President Eisenhower preferred, and Miss Violet McBride, principal of Vernon School.

BARKING DOG SAVES BOY. Lady, a young collie shepherd, barked her way into a great deal of gratitude when little Thomas Abel, 3, of St. Louis, Mo., walked into a deep mudhole and began sinking. The more he struggled and screamed the deeper he sank. The barks of his dog brought nearby workmen, who found Tommy mired up to his waist. (UPI Telephoto)

In and About Our Schools

Report cards for the first six-week period of the second semester will be distributed in many county schools this week.

City public school students can look forward to learning the results of their achievements for the same period when the cards are passed out next Wednesday.

For some students, the report card for this marking period will be a crucial one, determining the possible fate of a year's grade in one subject, particularly if the grade has been poor so far in the school year.

But time still remains for the conscientious student to play himself to the books in hopes of improving his scholastic record. Once spring wafts balmy weather into the city and county, however, it may be too late, especially with the lure of the outdoors.

—Harding—

On the basis of having achieved the highest grades in science subjects throughout high school, Dave Loerger, Harding senior, has been named the recipient of the 1959 Bausch and Lomb honorary science award medal. He will be presented the medal in May. The local honor entitles him to compete for a science scholarship sponsored by Bausch and Lomb Optical Co.

Howard Quinn, director of child study and guidance in city public schools, will speak to the Sophomore Tri-Hi-Y Club concerning vocations when the group meets Tuesday at the YMCA.

Six Harding students will present a one-act play Saturday at Sandusky in Buckeye Speech League competition. Holding roles in the production, "The Valiant," are: Barry Brand, Larry Ballinger, Ray Schumacher, Wally White, Harry Factor and Sheryl Spohn. Robert Webb, speech teacher, is directing the play.

The Shoshonean Club will hold a bake sale Saturday at 9:30 a.m. at the Montgomery Ward store on W. Center St. Proceeds will go toward financing the club's employer-employee banquet.

An all-school pep assembly will be held Friday afternoon in preparation for the night district game in tourney play.

The Vocational Industrial Club will meet tonight and the Future Engineers of America Thursday during homeroom period.

Esther Urechen will lead a discussion on good grooming at the Senior Tri-Hi-Y meeting Tuesday at the YMCA. The Junior Tri-Hi-Y will hold a business session during their meeting Tuesday.

An induction service for old and new members will take place when the Sophomore Hi-Y meets Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the "Y."

The senior cap and gown committee will begin taking measurements Tuesday at 8 a.m. Seniors are requested to pay the rental fee when they report for measurement.

—Taft—

Gordon Larson, Harding High School football coach, will be the speaker when the annual Taft athletic banquet is held Tuesday in the school lunchroom at 6:30 p.m.

The ninth grade choir will present its spring concert for the student body Friday under the direction of Mrs. Melba Swick.

Games have been launched in the double elimination intramural homeroom basketball tournament. Champions will be determined for 7th, 8th and 9th grade homerooms. These victors then will clash to decide the school champion. Jerry Moffitt is in charge of the tournament.

—Baker—

The magazine sale at Baker ended Friday with $6,656.90 collected, sending the drive over the goal by 33 per cent. High salesmen for the entire period were Jay Walker and Carol Probst. Taking top places in the second half of the campaign were Miss Probst and Carl Knirk.

Pam Norris received the "Mammy Yocum" doll for her homeroom which had highest sales for the greatest number of days during the campaign.

Other awards made Friday were an ice cream party to Merle Roth's homeroom, a candy bar party to Mrs. Grace Schiltz's second high homeroom, and the presentation of $25 in silver dollars to Elaine Hurst.

The championship game in the eighth grade intramural basketball tournament will be played after school Thursday.

Eighth grade, homeroom and English teachers will meet Tuesday to plan the course selection program for students at that level.

Robert Hull is the Baker spelling champion and will represent the school in the city contest next Monday. His alternate is Diane Greenbaum.

—Edison—

Plans for a spring dance and safety and courtesy campaigns were outlined when the Edison student council met this morning.

Larry Vermillion, a seventh grader, is the school spelling champion and Judy Conley is his alternate. Larry will compete for the city championship next Monday.

Members of the eighth grade will begin their course selection program Wednesday with homeroom sessions.

The ninth grade will present two plays Friday at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium. They are "Junior" and "Mystery at Midnight." A matinee of the one-act comedies will be given Thursday at 3:45 p.m. for students at Glenwood, Oakland and Olney Ave. schools.

—St. Mary—

To make the study of history more appealing, students in the eighth grade at St. Mary presented a debate last week on the subject: "Should the United States have become a member of the League of Nations?" The argument presented by the affirmative team was voted the best by the class.

Students in Grade 7-B have made maps of the United States from paper mache, showing the physical features of the land. Three students are assigned a science project every Monday in this room.

Grade 4-B won the contest in long division when they were pitted against youngsters in Grade 5-A last week.

Students in Grade 4-B also are working on an opera after having presented one entitled "Jack in the Beanstalk."

Dictionaries are being introduced in Grade 2-A where children are learning one new word a day and writing and spelling it. In keeping with the season, they are discovering Easter words and phrases, along with their meanings.

—Olney Ave.—

The development of transportation in the United States is the current interest in Miss Kathryn Ruehrmud's fifth grade at Olney Ave. The children have been working on research projects, making drawings and are presently building a model city.

The children in Mrs. Emily Wolf's third grade have developed a pioneer village in connection with the reading unit on "Early Days."

The children in Mrs. Grace Shumaker's fourth grade are studying the "southwestern section of the United States in conjunction with their social studies. Special reports are being written and pictures and souvenirs from the southwest are on display. The children are learning how the geography of a country affects the way one lives.

Easter rabbits have a new meaning to Mrs. Imogene Stalnaker's first grade. Students are enjoying sounding and learning new words which have been written on rabbits. A rabbit house has been constructed so that when the new word has been learned the rabbit can go in the house and eat.

Mrs. Mary Lyon's third grade has made a crystal garden in science class. The children enjoy watching the chemical change which takes place. Food coloring was added to the chemical to produce a variety of colors.

The children are also studying trees as they see them in different seasons of the year. Fall, winter, spring and summer trees have been created in miniature, using branches, colored paper, cotton, Easter grass and modeling clay.

—Pearl St.—

After reading about Norway in their supplementary reading book, the children in Mrs. Chloe Gatchell's third grade at Pearl St. invited Mrs. Arthur Lorentzen to tell them about her country. The children especially enjoyed the pictures she showed. Each child wrote a thank-you letter afterward.

After reading the chapter in the reader entitled "Roads of Early Days" concerning colonial living, Mrs. Myra Sanders' third grade had an antique show last week in their room. Pupils have brought in such things as a spinning wheel, candle molds, old irons, dolls, a 50-year old doll carriage, a 150-year old blanket, butter dishes, candle holders, "eye glasses," hand made nails, an old watch and many other items.

—Silver St.—

Miss Mary Ellen Krigbaum's first grade at Silver St. planted seeds in egg shells as their science project. Egg shells were filled with soil. Marigold and radish seeds then were planted. The entire flat was covered with transparent plastic in order that each child might watch his own plant appear and grow. When the plants are large enough the children will take them home.

Mrs. Maude Church's first grade has been learning about magnets this week. Various materials were used to see if the magnet would attract them. Chart stories about the magnet were written.

Mrs. Geneva Switzer's sixth grade has started a pottery project. Students became interested in

Curriculum Development Is Gabler's Chief Task

Works With City School Teachers To Develop Better Program

This is the second in a series of articles dealing with the curriculum development of the Marion public school system.

By JUNE ROSEBERRY

What textbook is being used in third grade mathematics throughout the city public school system?

A question like this logically would be directed to Cecil W. Gabler, assistant to the superintendent in charge of instruction. He is coordinator of all study materials and course plans used in Marion public schools.

THIS JOB IS a relatively new one in the local school system. The position was created here six years ago.

Because the course of study, instructional materials and teaching methods are decisive factors in producing the best learning situation for the student, Mr. Gabler focuses most of his attention in these areas.

Working individually with teachers, and in groups, he is constantly evaluating the instructional program and working to improve it.

Since taking over the job he has employed teamwork with teachers to develop a study guide for every subject offered in the school system except two. These exceptions are senior high school music and art.

Each teacher has one of these guides which he uses to carry out the instructional program. Unlike a textbook, the guide points out aims of the study and suggests effective ways of putting across the material.

At the elementary level, all courses of study are lumped together in one guide, outlining the progression from grades 1 through 6. Beginning in the seventh grade, course areas such as science and English are contained in individual guides covering junior and senior high school.

Mr. Gabler said each study guide is re-evaluated periodically and if teachers feel changes are necessary, the booklet is revised.

A CURRICULUM committee, composed of senior high English teachers, is now considering the three-year English program with an eye to necessary additions to instruction. Upon conclusion of the two-year study, a new guide will be written.

Next year teachers will restudy the language arts program in making pottery after studying about the "Delft Ware" of Holland and the pottery industries of England and other European countries.

Members of the class looked at samples of hand-made pottery and discussed them. Encyclopedias and books on ceramics were used to find out more about pottery making. Students then wrote reports on this subject.

Each pupil has made at least one article of fine clay. Cupboards were improvised from cardboard cartons for the drying process.

When the dishes, boxes, cups, animals and ashtrays are ready to fire in the kiln, glazing and different ways of decorating pottery will be discussed.

Miss Catherine Brown's first grade has been studying about the sun. Pupils wanted to learn how the sun keeps us warm. Four balls were mounted on cardboard with a flashlight in the center as the sun. Each ball showed the earth at a different season. The area getting direct rays from the sun was marked and then compared to the season.

—Glenwood—

Miss Alice Dome's second grade at Glenwood is using the microscope to explore common materials and objects. So far students have looked at hair and mold that grows on coal.

The boys and girls in the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades are collecting materials for the "Science Day" display. One room is having a display of the different materials found in the earth's crust such as limestone, sandstone, coal and oils. The other rooms are bringing fossils.

—N. Main St.—

Sgt. Fernelius of Detroit, Mich. and his puppet "Jerry McSafely" presented a safety program for the first four grades on Wednesday at N. Main St.

Members of Miss Ruth Drolinger's third grade are composing riddles based on familiar books and stories read in class. Students will attempt to guess the titles when the riddles are read to the class.

Mrs. Monnie Williams and Miss Eileen Azarov's fifth grades are making totem poles as a part of their Alaskan study. Construction paper is placed on cardboard poles to form the totem poles. Quiz programs have helped them learn many facts about our 49th state.

—Oak St.—

Miss Marie Johnson's second grade at Oak St. has been reading farm stories. They are now illustrating the stories with pictures showing different events that occur on the farm. The boys and girls are planning to make book-grades 7-9 to develop a new guide.

TEACHING GUIDE PREPARED. Cecil W. Gabler, (center), assistant to the superintendent of Marion public schools in charge of instruction, is shown with teachers in the slow learners' program who are formulating a study guide in citizenship for grades 1-12. Teachers pictured (left to right) are: Mrs. Rayl Conyers, Taft; Mrs. Frances Wolfe, Mark St.; Mrs. Betty Leffler, Glenwood; Mrs. W. F. O'Brien, Edison; and Mrs. Ilse Wymer, Silver St. Seated with their backs to the camera are George Whitehead, (left), Edison principal, and Floyd Hopfacker, Glenwood principal. Groups like this meet frequently with Mr. Gabler to study all branches of the curriculum and consider possible improvements.

Perhaps the most extensive study ever undertaken here is being carried out right now by teachers of the slow learners program. They are developing a course of study for citizenship from grade 1 through 12. Mr. Gabler estimated that the entire project will take 10 years. Instructors meet once each month, either afternoons or evenings, and complete one section in each meeting.

Preparing the elementary science guide for the program effected in 1956 took one and one-half years of teacher study.

Meetings with teacher committees in all phases of curriculum have kept Mr. Gabler "after school" almost every afternoon since he took over his job.

Textbooks rate top consideration, too, from the administrator. New texts are being studied in nine subject areas by faculty committees under his direction. Final recommendations will be submitted to the superintendent and the board of education in April.

Teachers in the subjects concerned are flooded with textbook samples from publishing houses, according to Mr. Gabler. They study these and then set a criteria for final selection.

The field is narrowed down to three possibilities and representatives of the publishers are called in to explain the merits of their particular volume to the committee. Then, after weeks of consideration, the final selection is made.

THE NEW BOOKS will represent a $25,000 item on the 1959-1960 school budget. According to Mr. Gabler, all texts are submitted to a restudy after they have been used five years. He noted that the study usually results in new purchases to keep instructional material at the highest level.

The administrator meets with teachers outside the classroom frequently, but devotes equal time to classroom visits. The purpose of these calls is twofold. First, the course of study is under observation to determine its effectiveness.

For example, Mr. Gabler may visit mathematics classes from grades 7 through 9 in the junior high schools to evaluate the continuity and progression of the current program.

Secondly, he is interested in helping any teacher with a problem, particularly in the instructional area. He focuses attention on new teachers during the first semester of each year, "not because the school system believes in policing," but in helping orient the new instructors, he explained.

Giving new teachers a helping hand falls under another large block of his responsibilities—the inservice program. In this area he organizes the annual teachers' workshop and supervises all school-wide activities. He is co-ordinating the Science Day being held this weekend at Harding, and the art exhibit to take place in May.

As assistant to the superintendent, he also organized the summer kindergarten program which is directed jointly by him and Miss Philomena Gregg, elementary supervisor.

One might also call the administrator the right arm of the superintendent. He confers with him on all problems and takes recommendations to him for improvement of course offerings.

When the school head is called out of town on business, Mr. Gabler serves as top administrator in his absence.

bers of the class. Harry Crawford served as master of ceremonies when the program was presented to mothers last Wednesday.

Posters depicting the lives of Edison, Lincoln and Washington and their contributions to the world made an attractive bulletin board displayed in Miss Ruby Williams' fifth grade. Ellen Isaly was chairman of the group of students making the display. Posters were made by Joyce Soddick, Penny Averill and Eddie Baxter.

The PTA recently purchased an opaque projector and a projection cart for use in the school visual education program.

Miss Rhea King's fifth grade has been studying how cells grow and development of bones, muscle and tissue. Dr. R. E. Logsdon, father of Paul Logsdon, a member of the class, brought a microscope and slides to show examples of this growth and development to the class last Wednesday.

—Mark St.—

The pupils in Miss Gladys Latimore's second grade at Mark St. have been given a collection of Florida shells by Mrs. John Burgen of 604 Windsor St. A starfish and a sand dollar are included in the collection.

Last Wednesday the boys and girls in the first five grades enjoyed a visit from the puppet, "Jerry McSafely," and his partner, Sgt. Fernelius of Detroit, Mich. Sgt. Fernelius is a member of the Detroit Police Department. His visit was sponsored by the Short Ford Co.

—Waldo—

The Waldo junior high school basketball team will meet Claridon on that school's court Wednesday. Grade cards will be distributed the same day.

The adult agriculture class will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

Bernard Augenstein, Cheryl Colleda and Gary McMahon will represent Waldo in the county spelling bee Friday night at Caledonia.

A group of Waldo High School musicians took part Saturday in the Ohio Music Education Association District 1 competition at Bucyrus High School. The students taking part were as follows:

Clarinet quartet, Patricia Cramer, David Augenstein, Shirley Kaelber and Sharon Cramer; trumpet trio, Douglas Denzer, Judy Klingel and Judy Newell; flute trio, Joyce Lichtenberger, Cheryl Kolleda and Charma Putman; boys' quartet, Leon McKorle Jr., Douglas Denzer, David Augenstein and Dan Dunlap, and solos were given by Joan Ullmer, saxophone, Joyce Lichtenberger, flute; Linda Lichtenberger, saxo-

—Vernon—

To conclude their study of "Days of Long Ago," third graders of Mrs. Audrey Morgan at Vernon produced a play based on the story from their reading book, "Storm Trouble."

Each member of the class took part in the adventures of the Chase family as related by this story.

Songs of long ago were sung. Bernard J. Granger and Rebecca Willis, students, accompanied the group on the autoharp.

A folk dance, "The Old Brass Wagon," was given by eight mem-

7 p.m. in the home economics room.

Three members of the FFA will attend a banquet sponsored by the Marion County Farm Bureau Co-op Association Wednesday night at the YMCA.

—Prospect—

Tickets are on sale for the Prospect athletic banquet to be held Tuesday, March 10, under PTA sponsorship. They may be purchased from cheerleaders or at the school office. Price is $1.35.

School contestants to the county spelling bee Friday night at Caledonia will be Janis Lauer and Don Ford, both eighth graders, and James Splitstoeser, seventh grader who was runner-up at the county level last year.

Grade cards will be distributed Thursday and a meeting of the Young Farmers will be held that night.

—New Bloomington—

The New Bloomington athletic banquet has been set for March 17.

On Friday, March 13, the Joy Bell Ringers will present an assembly program for the student body.

Report cards will be distributed Wednesday.

Juniors will handle concessions during the junior high school basketball tournament this week and next week at the school. Profits will go into the miscellaneous fund to defray expenses of the painting done during Christmas vacation.

Seniors worked overtime to meet the March 1 deadline for submitting the yearbook to the publisher last week.

—Martel—

Seniors at Martel have started rehearsals on the three-act comedy, "Girl Trouble," to be presented April 3.

Representing the school in the county spelling contest Friday night at Caledonia will be Lois Baer, seventh grade; Bob Kennedy, eighth grade, and Phillip Rice, sixth grade. Ed Marshall will be the alternate.

A movie entitled "Frog Men" was shown during Friday's assembly.

A clinic for clarinet and flute players in county bands will be held Saturday at the school.

—Morrill—

Report cards will be distributed Wednesday at Morrill.

—Caledonia—

The sophomore English class at Caledonia has read "A Tale of Two Cities" and students are writing reports on the history of early Paris and London.

On Thursday the national high school mathematics test will be administered to any interested students who have had at least one year of algebra and one year of geometry.

A representative of the sales company for class rings will visit the school this week and assist sophomores in selecting the rings they wish to order. These will be delivered next fall.

Plans are being made for the annual Lions Club Intramural Basketball Tournament to be held sometime this month. Both boys and girls' teams will compete for medals and prizes.

—Pleasant—

Science Day competition will be held at Pleasant School Wednesday, March 18. Exhibits in physics, chemistry, biology, botany, astronomy, zoology, earth science and mathematics will be judged in high school and junior high school categories.

Students whose displays are judged superior or excellent will be awarded ribbons. Some 125 applications to take part in the competition already have been received. The displays will be shown to the community Wednesday night.

FHA members are conducting a safety campaign which will continue through April 1. The FHA also is planning a gold-diggers dance for March 6. It will be held in the school cafeteria from 8 to 11 p.m. The girls will choose a king and his court as a highlight of the event.

Senior class members this week are making plans for their annual class trip and class play.

—LaRue—

FFA members at LaRue will elect new officers for the year during a meeting tonight at eight o'clock. The group will journey to Green Camp for a basketball game with the FFA there next Tuesday.

Dr. James E. Fox, LaRue veterinarian, will speak on the topic "Livestock Diseases" during a meeting Thursday night of the Adult Farmers.

The junior high basketball team will play Pleasant there Tuesday at 4 p.m.

Report cards will be distributed Wednesday.

LaRue's representatives in the county spelling contest Friday night at Caledonia will be Carol Butz, sixth grader, and Donald Knauer and Barbara Wittslager, seventh graders. The alternate is Jeff Capell, sixth grader.

The FHA will meet Monday at

Coming PTA Activities

Officers will be elected for the coming year when the Waldo PTA meets Tuesday night at the school. Harry Alexander, assistant superintendent of Marion County Schools, will show slides of his recent trip to Greece.

The annual Green Camp PTA art show will be held Sunday from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. in the elementary building. All entries of both adult and student work must be submitted by noon Saturday.

New to the exhibit this year will be a crafts section for metal, leather and jewelry work, knitting, weaving, crochet work, ceramics, carvings, sculpture and textile painting.

A science exhibit will be set up under the direction of Robert Lowry, but will not be judged.

Awards from the art show will be presented during the PTA meeting next Monday at 8 p.m. A guest speaker will be featured.

First Science Day Program Planned Here

The public today was extended an invitation to visit the student mathematics and science exhibits on display Saturday and Sunday at Harding High School during the first public schools' Science Day here.

More than 300 individual entries from junior and senior high school students are expected. Separate displays from each elementary building also will be featured, but not judged, school authorities reported.

All exhibits must be set up in the gymnasium between 8 a.m. and 9:30 a.m. Saturday. Open house will be observed between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. the first day, and on Sunday, from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Judges will evaluate exhibits after the fair closes to the public Saturday. Students will remain with their project until it is judged.

Each entry will be judged on the basis of project scope, neatness, clarity of explanation, thoroughness, knowledge achieved, period of sustained interest and originality.

Exhibits will be classified in these areas: botany, zoology, chemistry, physics, earth science, mathematics and conservation.

Finals Scheduled In County Spelling Bee Friday Night

Thirty-six contestants, representing top spellers in the 6th, 7th and 8th grades of Marion County schools, will compete for prizes Friday night at Caledonia School in the annual spelling bee.

The 7:45 p.m. program will be held in the gymnasium and is open to the public. Pronouncing the words used in the competition will be Eugene Winters, speech and hearing therapist in Marion public schools.

Judges will be the Rev. Albert Wagner, pastor of the Caledonia Methodist Church; the Rev. Kenneth Huff, pastor of the Caledonia Church of Christ, and Mrs. Nadya Sadowski, speech and English teacher at Caledonia.

Prizes will be awarded to the top three spellers. The highest scoring speller or his alternate will participate in the Central Ohio contest Saturday, May 2, in Columbus and will receive a trophy.

The second place winner also will be awarded a trophy. The third highest student will be presented a gift. V. R. Dunlap, Caledonia superintendent, reported today.

As head of the host school, Mr. Dunlap is chairman of the arrangements committee for the contest.

Seek Spelling Crown

Top spellers from the 7th and 8th grades at Baker, Edison and Taft junior high schools will vie for the city spelling championship next Monday at the School Administration Building, school officials reported today.

Ushers, Elta Mae Armstrong, Lynn Ludwig, Patty Hurst, Betsy Kaufman, Jano Hammond, Sharon Riebel, Kay Fortner and Wilma Craven, Mrs. Mildred Grigsby, adviser.

Tickets, Cynthia McManis, Carolyn Hoover, Clara Koon, Lois Orshood, Nan Shoup, Ruthe Leonard and Judy Nelson, Miss Minnie Winder, adviser.

World Grows Larger Day by Day

If reports of unrest in Nyasaland leave you incredulous — not about the unrest, which is plausible, but about Nyasaland, which isn't — the time has come to murmur, "It's a big world."

Nyasaland, which is as capable of having bloodshed as any other part of the big world, is a British protectorate, established by an act of Parliament in 1953. It has a governor, an executive council and an electorate, and is part of the Central African Federation. Northern Rhodesia and Southern Rhodesia are the two other members of the Federation. You find Nyasaland on the map of Africa by looking for Lake Nyasa bordering Tanganyika and Mozambique.

There is nothing to be ashamed of in not being able to remember all the places on the earth where civil disorder is likely to break out. Day by day the world grows larger. Far from being the "small world after all" that people like to think it is when they run into a friend in some far-off place, it is an immense complex of nationalities and the animosities that grow out of nationalism.

It is common among Americans to despair of keeping up with the news about disorders and threats of disorders in Europe. South America is baffling for the most part, because impressions about it are blurred. Postmaster General Summerfield was so vague about the good neighbors to the south that he forgot Ecuador in a Washington ceremony this week and precipitated a diplomatic protest.

Africa is even harder to comprehend, except for Britons who are still bearing the white man's burden there — and being urged as often as not to lay it down and get out. Asia is beyond Western comprehension. The most important story unfolding in the world at the moment very well may be in China, from which U.S. newsmen are barred by an order of their own government which, itself, knows little or nothing about China and does not have representation among the mainland Chinese of whom there now are estimated to be upward of a billion.

There are 82 nations in the United Nations. In the new Rand McNally & Co. Atlas, more than 300 capitals are listed, each representing a focal point of political activity. For all practical purposes, an American thinks he is keeping abreast of world events if he has a smattering of information about Washington, his own state capital and a working knowledge of names that recur in the news from London, Paris, Moscow and Rome. Tokyo begins to grow dim. Everything else is dimmer; some of it is in darkness.

The trouble in Nyasaland is about linking it with Kenya and Tanganyika, instead of Rhodesia. A citizen of "one world," as the late Wendell Willkie liked to call it, would be ready with a firm opinion. But as time passes and the Willkieism about "one world" undergoes more scrutiny, there is room for a contrary point of view.

Wendell Willkie, it will be recalled, thought the world had shrunk because it could be girdled by airplanes. Today, it can be girdled by missiles, too, but no one thinks of it any more as shrinking.

The world today is not geography any more but people's problems and perversities, which keep growing by leaps and bounds.

Bar Could Have Scored a Point

No American can help but be moved by the American Bar Assn.'s deep concern over security from Communist subversion.

But the association's House of Delegates, which showed its concern by adopting strongly worded recommendations during its recent convention in Chicago, did not go far enough in its concern for U.S. security.

It could have scored a point for freedom if it had come to grips with one cause for concern that looms as large for Americans as possible errors of interpretation by the U.S. Supreme Court in cases that involve the culpability of Communists.

It is the readiness with which Communist subversives whose inalienable personal rights get all mixed up with the people's right to protect themselves from imminent danger find lawyers to look after their interests in and out of court.

There are lawyers who specialize in advising and defending Communists, just as there are lawyers who have no visible means of support other than their practice among racketeers. This is the kind of counsel that sits at the elbow of the client who knows exactly when to plead the Fifth Amendment to confound a prosecutor or an investigator.

Yet, the lawyers who carry on this practice are, themselves, agents of the courts they tie in legal knots and sworn defenders of the same Constitution that other lawyers think is being distorted and tortured by courts whose rulings give comfort to the unworthy because the courts have been confronted with legal dilemmas that can be solved in no other way.

If the American Bar Assn. is going to put judges on the defensive, its position would be stronger if it acknowledged first that judges are the professional brothers of the kind of lawyers who count that day lost when they are not creating new dilemmas to make judges choose between upholding a principle and punishing a rascal.

Proxmire Finally Said It Aloud.

The altercation between Sen. Proxmire (D-Wis.) and Sen. Johnson (D-Tex) over the latter's leadership of the Senate majority should be of special interest to professors of political science.

Sen. Johnson's Wisconsin critic has pointed to the most puzzling of this country's many paradoxes of politics—the fact that the failure of representative democracy is risked by those who strive to make it work.

To the extent that they command followers and impose discipline, they grow so strong they weaken the fiber of popular government. Sen. Johnson, observers agree, is the strongest leader to come along in a generation. He runs the Senate majority like a machine. He knows what is going on at all government levels in Washington and has achieved such mastery of politics that he is the strongest individual in the Democratic party.

For those who take delight in conjectures about political strength in general, it seems plausible that he may be the strongest individual in the United States. He dominates Congressional Democrats in both the House and Senate, with the willing assistance of his fellow Texan Speaker Rayburn, and thereby dominates the White House, itself. In brief, Sen. Johnson has become exactly what his fellow Democrat, Sen. Proxmire, says he is—a concentration of political power in an individual, at the expense of the party caucus system of reaching policy decisions.

Sen. Johnson, his critic has pointed out, does not ask other Democrats what to do; he tells them what to do. Yet, it is this very thing that makes him a valuable leader. He knows that the way to get results is to have strong central authority. Perhaps he knows, too, that the weakness of representative democracy has been the slowness with which it makes up its collective mind on clear-cut issues and its inability to make any decision at all on indeterminate issues.

Sen. Proxmire warns that his first speech is only the beginning. He intends to press the point. If he follows through he either will force Sen. Johnson to become stronger or destroy enough of his strength to cripple the leadership that has been the mark of his success.

Either way, there will be a threat to representative democracy, which works best when it is on the verge of being destroyed by too much individual strength and fails utterly when it meets the specifications of perfectionists who think all decisions should be made by committees and caucuses.

The Once Over

Ballplayers are being signed with a provision for good behavior, regard for their diet and abstinence from fried foods. Suggestion for a 1959 contract:

1. It is agreed that the signer of this baseball contract will give his highest effort and his lowest calorie count and strive for a .350 average in watching his starches and carbohydrates.

2. He will so conduct himself so as not to be caught burping between bases and shall be subject to a fine for stopping to take an indigestion pill during the double-steal.

3. He agrees to do nothing conducive to stomach ulcers. The owners, managers and coaches have enough ulcers without worrying about employees.

4. He hereby admits as many games are lost through acid indigestion, a second helping of cream pie or a glass of beer for dessert as through tough pitching.

5. The player agrees never to swing at a wide pitch or a tail bill-of-fare.

6. It is agreed that the player will show up on time for batting practice and a drill in pushing himself away from a loaded dinner table or barbecue pit.

7. Good conduct is guaranteed under all conditions. Bad behavior in times of adverse decisions shall be furnished by the manager.

8. The signer promises to cover more territory in the field than in any steakhouse and to be as alert in throwing out a home frying pan as a baseball park base runner.

9. This contract commits both parties to the belief that no player ever got to the Baseball Hall of Fame through banana splits, a scuttle of beer or a midnight wench-rabbit.

Man, Are You in a Fix?

Junior Summit Meeting

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON
There is a simpler view than some of the guesses on why Premier Nikita Khrushchev gave British Prime Minister Macmillan a rude fast brushoff when he went to Moscow to discuss the Berlin crisis.

The guesses range from thinking Khrushchev was making one more effort to intimidate the West to saying he was impatient with Macmillan for not bringing solid solutions with him to Moscow.

The simpler view is that the realistic Khrushchev thinks strictly in terms of power and who has the muscle. He has shown he understands what power means by getting rid of all his rivals in the U.S.S.R. until now he stands supreme.

In this world the two most powerful forces are the Soviet Union and the United States. They dominate. Compared with them every other nation is a second-rate force, according to this view.

THE TWO LEADERS of the two dominant powers are Khrushchev and President Eisenhower. Therefore any talks except directly between Khrushchev and Eisenhower are a gumbating waste of time.

If this view is accepted, then that would explain why Khrushchev treated Macmillan like a messenger boy, dismissed the idea of a foreign ministers meeting as time-wasting, and aimed at what he has sought more than a year: a summit meeting with Eisenhower.

His meeting with Macmillan was in a way a kind of junior summit. He showed what he thought of Macmillan's importance by the way he treated the British prime minister, who was his guest.

KHRUSHCHEV has given the United States, Britain and France until May 27 to get their troops out of Berlin. If they don't, he has threatened to let the East German Communists block any supplies the Big Three attempt to send their Berlin troops.

Since this situation could lead to war, the Western Big Three proposed to seek a peaceful solution by talking. But their idea of who talks and Khrushchev's idea are not the same.

The Big Three—following what has become a kind of reflex action any time trouble arises—suggested that their three foreign ministers get together with the Soviet foreign minister to talk things over.

Such foreign ministers meetings in the past, as Khrushchev later emphasized, can be time-consuming. They can be and often have been, unproductive.

BEFORE THE Soviets could give an official answer to the proposal about foreign ministers, Macmillan decided to go to Moscow, see Khrushchev, and try to lay the groundwork for peaceful solutions.

But, since the Big Three were not yet willing to go beyond the idea of a ministers' meeting, Macmillan couldn't carry with him to Moscow any proposals that went further than that.

Khrushchev—during a recess in his conversations with Macmillan—made a farce of the talks by delivering, in a manner that seemed completely contemptuous of the prime minister, a speech on the very subject they were discussing: Berlin.

He warned that Western efforts to push military supplies through to West Berlin after May 27 could mean war; he mocked the idea of a foreign ministers meeting; and said only the heads of government have sufficient power to negotiate on the German problem.

THEN SUNDAY, just before Macmillan set out for home, British sources said he was coming back determined to urge the United States and France into a summit meeting with Khrushchev. Macmillan long has favored such a meeting, but the official Allied stand has been for adequate advance preparation.

So Khrushchev moved one step closer to what he has wanted all along — a meeting with Eisenhower.

Teddy and Gifford

By Truman Twill

All day, while I was pruning the shrubbery, I kept thinking about the time my roommate sent away for the clippers and the barber shears.

He had figured out that he could pay for these tools with his outlay for a year's worth of haircuts and thereafter would be getting his barbering for nothing.

The catch was that he and I had to learn to give each other presentable haircuts. He tried his skill on me first; it was easy.

My hair was light in color and light in texture. It was also light in content, because even then I was beginning to shed. Mistakes in hair-cutting didn't show until the inspector got up close.

But my roommate's hair was black and stiff as porcupine quills. Every single hair had to be considered separately, because every hair showed up separately.

I started to switch from the skin line to the fuzz line at the regular place, a few inches above the collar. When the effect turned out to be like a flash fire that had burned off everything that protruded beneath the edge of a butter crock, I moved up a little to try again.

When I finally threw in the scissors, I had his hairline up to the top of his head. The effect was like a scalp knot on an early American Indian.

There was nothing to do but go to the campus barber and get what passed in these days for a convict haircut. My roommate said old John was tactful; he must have seen the results of many a do-it-yourself haircutting project in his time.

The shrubbery at our place had not been barbered recently.

Some of it never had been barbered at all. That would be about years of unregulated, uninhibited growth.

The trick in such cases, as every shrubbery trimmer knows, is to take off enough without taking off too much. The effect should be between a free military haircut and a trim job in a barbershop where they don't ask if you want it with tonic but ask which kind.

Time after time, it turned out the same way. One thing led to another until the only way out of the dilemma was to go all the way to the ground and hope nature would be kind — and quick.

I was reading an article subsequently about the way to prune shrubbery and the fellow suggested the easiest way is to keep snipping away at it all the time, instead of doing the whole thing at once. I think he has a good idea.

It might have worked with my roommate.

We made our mistake by tackling too much at once. When panic set in, we went from bad to worse, then to the barbershop.

If I had snipped off a little of his hair each day, no one would have known what was happening. They might have been puzzled by alterations in his appearance, but no one would have concluded he had fallen among unfriendly natives and been scalped.

When they see my shrubbery they're going to think the lumber barons cleaned out the place to spite Teddy Roosevelt and Gifford Pinchot — and if anyone wonders how they got into this these two were among the foremost fighters of the lumber barons, who were ruthless fellows that cut down everything they could sell and broke down everything else in the rush to finish the job.

In the Mail Bag

Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail.

By the time he is 70, the average American has spent 20 years in sleeping, 20 years at work, and 5½ years in eating, smoking and chewing gum.

Two Trapped Youths Saved At Vancouver

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — Two high school youths—scared, chilled, but uninjured — were hoisted to safety Sunday night from a precarious perch midway up a sheer, 325-foot cliff.

The youths were trapped six hours by crumbling rock. They began the climb, hoping to climb a ladder they thought had been built into the cliff as part of a dam construction project. There was no ladder.

They began their climb late on a warm afternoon, and were jacketless and wearing cotton shirts. After the sun went down, and as they clung to the cliff, the youths were chilled by icy winds that sprang up in the Lewis River canyon.

Seven men from the Mountain Safety & Rescue Council of Oregon came from Portland, Ore., 50 miles southwest of the area, to rescue them.

Clark County sheriff's deputies identified the two as Charles Haas, 17, and Darrell Jones, 18, both of Vancouver. After the rescue the boys warmed themselves at a bonfire and drove home in their own car.

They said they started to climb the cliff, man-made during the construction of Pacific Power & Light Co.'s Yale power house and dam.

"We got about as far as half way, maybe," said Haas. "Then the rocks started breaking up."

Rites Are Held in Galion For Theodore Schaefer

GALION—Funeral services were held in Peace Lutheran Church here Sunday afternoon for famed church musician Theodore C. Schaefer who died Tuesday night in his Washington, D.C., apartment.

A memorial service was held Friday in the National Presbyterian Church in Washington where Mr. Schaefer had been organist and choirmaster for the last 20 years. Graveside services were conducted this morning and burial was made in the Fairview Cemetery here.

Mr. Schaefer died of acute congestive heart failure as he was talking on the telephone to a friend, Harold Runk of New York. He had visited with Mr. Schaefer earlier in the day and had telephoned him because of his concern for the musician's health. Mr. Runk said Mr. Schaefer had been suffering from a severe cold and strep throat.

His death at 48 cut short a brilliant musical career. In addition to being an accomplished organist and choirmaster, he was well known as a piano and organ accompanist.

The Rev. Philip E. Auer, pastor of Peace Lutheran Church, delivered the sermon at the Sunday service, Miss Dorothy Plack, one of Mr. Schaefer's former pupils, played the organ.

The Rev. Edward L. R. Elsen, pastor of the National Presbyterian Church in Washington, delivered the memorial tribute Friday.

Bushkill Is Named To Post at Shovel

The appointment of C. J. Bushkill as machine shop superintendent for Marion Power Shovel Co. was announced today by J. A. Weltergreen, vice president and general works manager. Mr. Bushkill's background includes 12 years as a machine shop superintendent for another leading manufacturer of power shovels, cranes and draglines.

In making the announcement, Mr. Weltergreen said James Lee would remain with the machine shop organization in an important staff capacity. "The combined shovel knowhow and machine shop experience of Jack Bushkill and Jim Lee will materially strengthen our shop operations in the area," Mr. Weltergreen said.

For the program, the book, "Mrs. Arris Goes to Paris" by Paul Gallico, was reviewed by Mrs. Marion Clark. Serving as hostesses were Mrs. Dan Hale and Mrs. Don Porter.

At the next meeting, March 19, Miss Madge Cooper will narrate and show slides on "The World of Fashion."

Mrs. Betty Bell was hostess for a meeting of the Homemakers Club Tuesday evening in her home at 357 Franconia Ave. Mrs. Margaret Harbort conducted devotions, reading scripture from the 42nd chapter of Isaiah.

A white elephant sale, conducted by Mrs. Doris Chapman, followed. All members are requested to attend a special meeting to be held March 5 at 1 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Rosie Steubner near Harpster.

In games, prizes were won by Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. Harbort, Mrs. Pat Reebel, Mrs. Steubner and Mrs. Ethel DeVore. Guests were Mrs. Naomi Boswell and Mrs. Betty Patton. For the regular March meeting, Mrs. Reva Moore of 300 Pearl St. will be hostess.

Plans were made to have dinner on March 26 at the Magnolia Springs Foundation with a tour of the facilities to follow when the Moral Tots to Teens Study Club met Thursday evening. Mrs. Myron Sandridge was hostess in her home near Big Island. Those who are unable to attend are asked to notify Mrs. Dallas Campbell by March 19.

Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Dick Granlee and members gave their nicknames in response to roll call.

Friday, March 27, was set as the date for an Easter egg hunt for children of the members to be held at the Grand Prairie School. A committee was appointed to color approximately 20 dozen eggs and also to serve refreshments the day of the hunt. The club voted to purchase two 72-cup electric coffee urns for the Marion County Home with the finance committee authorized to make the selection.

Entertainment included a playlet, "Press the Buzzer and Be Seated," by Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Charles Fetter, Mrs. Howard Conley, Mrs. Curtis Francis and Mrs. Granlee. The remainder of the evening was spent making bed pads for the County Home. Refreshments were served by the hostess and her co-hostess, Mrs. Max Brewer.

The Prospect Garden Club met Thursday night in the home of Mrs. Carl Gabriel. Mrs. A. M. Strasser opened the meeting with a poem and devotions were led by Mrs. Hosea Kyle. Mrs. Vera Herbst, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Ed T. Jones who gave a paper, "Mrs. Edna Griffith read an article. Mrs. Paul Gast was a guest.

The Rev. Sherwood W. Roach discussed "Religion in the Home."

Miss Shirley Ann Troiano

Parents of Miss Troiano announce her engagement to Arthur Eugene Martin. Details are in the Social Notebook.

and showed slides when the Tikes, Toddlers and Teen chapter of the Child Conservation League met Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Jack Barford on Chicago Ave.

Fourteen members answered roll call with their favorite flower. Mrs. Dorothy Walters was welcomed as a new member.

Plans were made to hold a husbands party April 4 at the home of Mrs. Al Wiensers, club president, at 24 Sara Ave. The possibility of sending a member to the spring conference also was discussed.

Lodge Activities

Plans to have a bake sale prior to Easter were made when Esther Temple 90, Pythian Sisters of Caledonia, met Tuesday night in the K. of P. hall at Caledonia.

Mrs. Shirley Taylor, most excellent chief, was in charge.

It was decided to sponsor a page in the high school senior year book along with the Past Chiefs organization. Practice was held for inspection scheduled on April 14. Winner of a cake walk was Mrs. Alta Gray.

Refreshments were served in the dining room by Mrs. Lydia Durham and Mrs. Helen Carpenter. A meeting of the Past Chiefs will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. in the K. of P. hall.

A cake walk for benefit of the March of Dimes and Heart Fund was featured at a meeting of White Lily Temple 273, Pythian Sisters, at Waldo Thursday night in the K. of P. Hall. Mrs. Louis Klingel presided. An application for membership was received. Secret sister gifts were received by Mrs. P. A. Miller and Mrs. Karl Watzel. Mrs. Jack Smith provided the mystery box won by Mrs. Alice Chapman. Officers and degree staff directed by Mrs. Ernest Klingel will practice at the hall March 5 for annual inspection at the Waldo School April 9. A quarterly birthday party honoring members with anniversaries in January, February and March will be held March 12. There will be a potluck supper followed by practice for the inspection event.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann: I'm 24 and have been dating since I was 15. I've fallen for many fellows. Some romances lasted a week, others as long as a year. How does a gal know when she's really in love?

The current boy friend seems to be getting serious. He's wonderful in many ways but I don't know if I love him. When he was out of town for three weeks I missed him terribly. Had he asked me to marry him the night he returned I probably would have said yes. Now I'm unsure again.

What is love? How can one tell if from a passing fancy? How will I know?—IN A FOG.

Dear Ann: If you're waiting for your eyes to light up like a pinball machine, don't. It won't happen.

Real love doesn't knock you on the head like a chunk of loose plaster. Love must take root and grow—one day at a time.

Love is friendship that has caught fire. It is quiet understanding, solid confidence, sharing and forgiving. It is loyalty, through good times and bad. It survives dark moods and makes allowances for human frailties. It settles for less than perfection.

Love is a mirror of life. It is real—not a bed of roses or a paradise in fairyland. Love, like life, can be challenging and even heartbreaking. But the person who can face both life and love with confidence and courage—and give of himself for the sheer joy of giving—is sure to find joy and contentment. For loving is living.

One More Word

Dear Ann: We are sisters, 15 and 18, both in high school. Our dad passed away a year ago.

Dad's cousin came in from Canada for the funeral. He stayed at our house and has been here ever since. He has asked that we call him Uncle Frank and he seems like a perfectly nice man. But the neighbors are gossiping and the relatives have had plenty to say.

He got himself a good job (he's a tool and die worker) and Mom says he helps out with the bills. He sleeps on the sun porch and keeps his car in our garage.

When we told Mother about the talk she said to pay no attention. She claims Uncle Frank is an honorable man and good company for her. Do you feel we should say any more to Mother or shall we let the matter drop?—S. AND J.

Dear S. and J.: Say ONE more thing to Mother, THEN let the matter drop.

Tell her if Uncle Frank is such "good company" they should get married or he ought to live elsewhere. Even though he (like Brutus) is an honorable man, your mother (like Caesar's wife) should be above suspicion.

Cost of Experience

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 17 and never liked a girl before I met Martha. She's so popular I was afraid to ask her for a date because I didn't want to get refused. I finally invited her to a Saturday matinee, three weeks in advance. When she said yes I was in the clouds.

The Saturday before our date I saw a pretty locket in a store window. I decided to surprise her and have it engraved with her initials. The morning of the big day I phoned to say what time I'd pick her up. She told me that she was sorry she'd said yes and that she didn't want to go with me.

I was very disappointed. Now I wonder if I should give her the locket anyway. It has her initials and I have no use for it.—JIM.

Dear Jim: Don't give her the locket. Chalk this one up to experience and learn a lesson from it. Never buy a gift for a girl unless you are dead sure she thinks enough of you so that giving it makes sense.

Confidentially

TO THE WITNESS: Your letter was hilarious. You don't need advice. You need an agent.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Marion Star, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Theatrical Center To Be Constructed

NEW YORK (AP) — The new Lincoln Square center for the performing arts may help an old theater back to life.

The center, construction of which is planned during the next five years, includes a playhouse for repertory drama but has no provision for commercial theatrical productions.

Near the center site, however, is the Colonial theater, a legitimate house dedicated in recent years to service as a television studio. Plans are to refurbish it so that regular Broadway producers will have a showcase adjacent to the center.

Stock Given to Church Brings Handsome Profit

LAWRENCEBURG, Tenn. (AP) — The First Presbyterian Church's new $200,000 sanctuary has just about everything the 56-member congregation could want. And it's all paid for.

How could such a small group pay cash?

In 1949, the church received a gift of stock from the late Richard S. Reynolds Sr., president of the Reynolds Metals Co.

By last year the stock had increased in value enough to pay the costs of the new building.

Seroba J. Porter Becomes Bride of Theodore Bibler

Making their home near Nevada since their marriage on Saturday, Feb. 7, in Epworth Methodist Church are Mr. and Mrs. Theodore E. Bibler. A graduate of Harding High School with the class of 1956, he is completing his second year of college at Ohio Northern University where he is affiliated with Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity. Mrs. Bibler was graduated from Harding High School with the class of 1957.

Mrs. Theodore E. Bibler

Previous to her marriage, Mrs. Bibler was Miss Seroba Jene Porter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Porter of 475 Elgin Ct. Mr. Bibler's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ronald E. Bibler of near Nevada. The ceremony was read at 7:30 o'clock in the evening by the Rev. Robert A. Byler, pastor, before the altar decorated with cathedral baskets of white stock and lighted candles held in candleabra. White stock also were arranged in the altar vases and marking the family pews were white satin bows. Mr. and Mrs. George Lane, vocalist and organist, presented nuptial music.

GIVEN IN marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown fashioned of Chantilly lace and tulle. The fitted bodice featured a sheer yoke with a portrait neckline of scalloped appliques and the long sleeves tapered to tiny points over the hands. The bouffant, floor-length skirt was designed with a wide band of lace. Her fingertip-length veil of sheer illusion was caught to a jeweled crown and pearl earrings were her jewelry. She carried a white Bible topped with white roses and a shower of white carnations.

Miss Barbara Jo Christ attended the bride as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Suanne Bibler, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Gwen Gettys, cousin of the bridegroom. Their street length dresses were of royal blue taffeta styled along princess lines. They had matching shoes and white accessories and carried cascade arrangements of white feathered carnations.

Pat Street, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer, and flower girl was Serena Norris, niece of the bride. Her dress of white taffeta was trimmed in lace and she carried a basket filled with blue and white pompons. In her hair she wore white carnations. To light the candles, Misses Debra Street and Susan Harden wore white taffeta ballerina length dresses and wrist corsages of white carnations.

SERVING AS best man for the bridegroom was Richard Wilson, and ushers were Larry Mumper, a fraternity brother, and Gene Dasher.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Porter chose a royal blue knit dress with which she combined black accessories. Mrs. Bibler was attired in a scarlet lace dress with black accessories. Each had a corsage of cymbidiums.

For the reception which followed in the basement of the church, the bride's table was decorated in royal blue and white and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Encircling the base of the cake were white pompons. Serving as hostesses were Mrs. Fred Harden, Miss Avonda Chevalier and Miss Anne McAfee.

When the couple left on a weekend trip, Mrs. Bibler was wearing a black velvet sheath dress with black suede shoes and matching purse. Her corsage was of white roses.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Perrysburg, Lorain, Columbus, Ada, Ashly, Mansfield, Toledo and Richwood. At the rehearsal party on Feb. 6 at the home of the bridegroom's parents, the couple presented gifts to their attendants.

The American Cancer Society is sponsoring research experiments with anti-cancer treatments which might rob cancer cells of their power to divide.

Sen. Johnson May Hold Key To Nomination

Texas Highly Praised By Democrats, Gains Presidential Support

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas appears to be emerging as one of those most likely to influence the choice of the 1960 Democratic presidential nominee—if he isn't himself the standard-bearer.

Democrats who rallied at a $100-a-plate victory dinner during the weekend heard a great deal of praise for the skill of Johnson, the Senate Democratic leader.

2,479 Attend Dinner
 The dinner drew 2,479 and raised about $185,000. Johnson and House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) delivered the principal addresses, and numerous other Democrats spoke.

Behind the festive scenes there was a measure of agreement among party strategists that Johnson and his supporters may come close to having the deciding voice in the selection of the party's presidential nominee at the July 1960 convention in Los Angeles.

Johnson keeps telling all callers that he isn't running, that Texas doesn't want a presidential candidate and that the country doesn't want a president from Texas.

Impressed With Burdens
 Johnson obviously was further impressed with the never-ending burdens of the presidency in a discussion of these with President Eisenhower on a recent flight to Texas.

Nevertheless, as Texas' favorite son, Johnson is expected to go into the 1960 convention with a substantial bloc of delegates, mostly from Southern states. He will have wide secondary support from all sections of the country and an acquaintance with individual Democratic leaders not equaled by any of the more active presidential aspirants.

This strength could be decisive in swinging support to whichever aspirant he decides to back.

URGES SUPPORT FOR IKE. Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson used a party political dinner Saturday as a forum to urge national support of President Eisenhower in the Berlin crisis. He was a featured speaker at the $100-a-plate Democratic dinner at the Sheraton Park Hotel in Washington. Crawford Sets $4,000 Goal in '59 Seal Drive

BUCYRUS — Nearly 12,000 envelopes containing Easter Seals have been placed in the mail here by the Crawford County Society for Crippled Children.

Goal of the countywide drive, according to Frank P. Sittler, society treasurer, is $4,000. The campaign will continue through Easter Sunday, March 29.

Of the funds raised in Crawford County, 75 per cent will be retained for local patient services and the remainder will go to the state and national societies to support programs of research, education and service in hospitals.

During the last year, 132 children and adults were given service by the society in this county. The society also purchased two hydraulic lifters to aid in moving patients from beds to chairs, 2 wheel-chairs, 2 walkers, 18 braces, 3 sets of crutches, 13 pairs of special corrective shoes, 1 hearing aid and 3 pairs of special glasses.

Among the services performed by the society were: 68 speech and hearing therapy treatments at Tiffin Clinic, 5 treated at the epilepsy ward at Tiffin Clinic, a child treated at Cleveland Clinic, 7 children sent to a crippled children's camp for 2 weeks and hospitalization and nurses for a heart surgery case.

Much More Than an Adapter

A. E. Hotchner is the official dramatizer — he doesn't like the word adapter — of the works of Ernest Hemingway for television, a post of imposing if somewhat frightening grandeur. A long-time buddy, drinking companion, and admirer of the Nobel Prize winner, Hotchner takes the job seriously but not so solemnly that it scares him. "He's going to trust me until our first disaster," said Hotchner, a red-headed, freckle-faced, amiable imp who very well might have been the model for Howdy Doody.

So far Hotchner has staved off disaster brilliantly through seven dramatizations of Hemingway tales. "The Battler," "The Nun," "The Radio," "Fifty Grand," "Nick Adams," "Capital of the World" and "The Gambler."

I didn't see them all but the ones I did were brilliant, notably "The World of Nick Adams" on "Seven Lively Arts," "Fifty Grand" on "Kraft," and "The Battler" on "Playwrights 56."

HOTCHNER HAS a profound understanding of the man and his work. I think he knows what Hemingway is aiming at and is not so awed by him that he can't get the work done.

How, I asked him, did Hemingway feel about having his work changed?

"Very lenient," said Hotchner. "He doesn't demand anything. He doesn't, above all, feel the writer has to cherish every word."

"Hemingway doesn't even read the scripts. He waits until someone shows him a kinescope. Right now, he's in Ketchum, Idaho, in a log house in a town of some 800 finishing a novel."

"This show ('For Whom the Bell Tolls' in two parts on 'Playhouse 90' now in rehearsal for presentation March 12 and 19) will be the first time he's ever seen one of his stories actually on television."

WHILE HEMINGWAY has liked all of his stories which Hotch has dramatized on TV, he generally has loathed what the movies have done to his work.

"The Killers" is the only movie Hemingway liked," Hotchner said. "That was written for the screen by John Huston, who understands Hemingway."

"You have to understand all of it — not just one story or one novel. It helps to know the man as much as you can. Huston, I'm sure, has read almost everything Hemingway has written."

Hotchner grinned: "Hemingway hated the movie version of 'The Sun Also Rises'."

He said to me that any movie in which Errol Flynn emerges as the best actor is a disaster."

He brooded a moment and then added: "I suppose what I'm trying to say is that when you're dramatizing Hemingway you don't write it the way Noel Coward would write it."

AS A DRAMATIZER, he many times feels called on to change the action or content or the time sequence of the original. The idea is to preserve the spirit.

"One of my secret satisfactions," Hotchner said, "is reading a review praising me for something Hemingway didn't write."

"In 'Fifty Grand' one reviewer said something to the effect that the description of the fighter talking to his wife before the fight is as great on the TV screen as it was on the printed page. Well, it wasn't on the printed page. I made it up."

Hotchner does originals, too. Last year, on "Playhouse 90," he wrote "The Last Clear Chance," an excellent courtroom drama starring Paul Muni and Luther Adler, which was repeated during the summer.

The legal aspects came easy because Hotchner is a lawyer who has abandoned the practice of law for the typewriter.

RIGHT NOW he's working on another "Playhouse 90" script called "The Last Four Days of Mussolini."

The documentary thing is real big this year and this is a logical successor to "The Plot To Kill Stalin" and "Seven Against the Wall," which was a documentary on the St. Valentine's day massacre in Chicago.

"Doing a documentary type of thing is entirely different from doing anything else," he said. "You have to get rid of all your prejudices and create, out of the facts, the fiction of drama."

"I like working with Fred Coe (producer of many of 'Playhouse 90's' best shows). When Coe produces, the author has the same status as a playwright on Broadway. You're committed to the show from the beginning to the end."

"Not all shows are like that. U.S. Steel, for example, just buys your script and says goodbye to you." (Copyright New York Herald Tribune)

Boy Freed in One of Two California Kidnapings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two Southern California mothers had reason to cry today.

The son of each was kidnapped. The tears of Mrs. Wayne Murray, of Venice, were joyful. Her boy, Wayne Jr., 7, was rescued by officers from a former mental patient.

But the second mother, Ruth Flores, collapsed in a "hysterical condition" from anxiety and weariness. Her infant son, kidnapped early Saturday, is still missing.

Police in Bishop, Calif., acting on a tip from a Los Angeles bus ticket seller, found young Wayne Murray in a cheap hotel room with William Harris Elwell. Elwell, 28, was held for Venice police on a kidnapping charge.

Mrs. Murray had been under sedatives to relieve hysteria since her son was missed Saturday. She is expecting another child.

Phone Talks Continue

CLEVELAND (AP) — Representatives of Ohio Bell Telephone Co. and the Communications Workers of America meet again today to try to work out a wage agreement for 17,000 bell employees in Ohio. CWA members continued to work without a contract, and there was no threat of a strike from union leaders. Negotiators talked into the morning hours Sunday after the contract expired at midnight Saturday. There was another brief meeting Sunday, but a company spokesman said "no decisions were made."

Governor Prepares To Submit State's Budget to Legislature

Lawmakers May Get To Quiz DiSalle

Question and Answer Session in Assembly Under Consideration

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Michael V. DiSalle submits his state operating budget this week to the Democrat-Controlled Legislature.

Lawmakers, returning from weekend adjournment, face an unprecedented opportunity to question the governor about his tax program to finance budget needs. Indications were that budget totals would hit new highs.

DiSalle said he might seek permission to defend his budget at a question-and-answer session of the Legislature if Cabinet members backstop him. He called on department heads to express their views on the unusual proposal in preparation for a possible grilling.

Describing the budget message as the most important in two decades, DiSalle said explanations might be in order for some items. "We would have to make allowances for loaded questions," he observed. "In some instances, we might have to say we don't know the answers but that would be better than 'no comment'."

More Bills Readied
Both houses scheduled a handful of bills for a floor vote tonight. Interest centered on a House vote on a proposal to give women the same pay as men for substantially equal work. The law would apply to employers of 10 or more.

Enforcement would repose in the State Department of Industrial Relations.

As amended by an Industry and Labor Sub-Committee, the bill would permit women workers to seek damages of double the amount lost in wages as a result of discrimination against them.

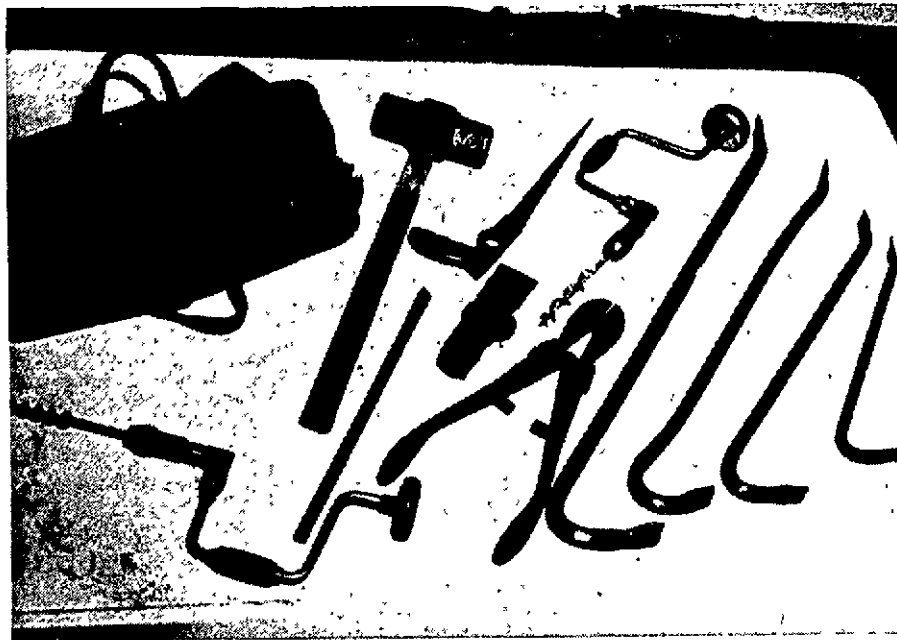

Speaker James A. Lantz (D-Fairfield) said the House probably would vote during the week on one of two proposals that jammed committee rooms during hearings. Quail Bill Coming Up

One measure would allow quail hunting on state-controlled lands. The other would abolish motor scooter licenses for 14 and 15-year-olds.

A heavy schedule of committee hearings will keep legislators busy during the week.

Of widespread interest is another session by the House Judiciary Committee Wednesday night on a DiSalle-endorsed measure to end capital punishment. At the first hearing last week, questions and expressions by members indicated to Statehouse veterans that the proposal may die in committee.

The House Industry and Labor Committee will hear opponents of a senate-passed supplemental unemployment benefits (SUB) proposal Tuesday night. The labor-backed measure would enable jobless workers to draw SUB and state unemployment compensation

BURGLARY TOOLS RECOVERED. An array of crowbars, wood augers, bolt cutters, sledge hammer, screwdriver, steel wedge and large chisel found on the roof of Wise's Supermarket Saturday night after a burglary attempt is shown here. The burglary attempt failed when an unidentified woman became suspicious of the actions of three men she saw near the rear of the building. Police were summoned and surprised the men on the roof of the store. (Story on Page 1.)

Uncle Sam Faces Crisis

Financing of Huge U.S. Debt Presents Problems

There is growing concern in Washington about the Treasury's difficulties in managing a record national debt of 286 billion dollars.

By FRANK CORMIER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Uncle Sam is having trouble borrowing the billions he needs to stay in business.

No one doubts he'll get the money he requires, one way or another. The question is: what price will he have to pay — in terms of dollars, economic difficulty and possible inflation?

If the price gets high enough, a financial crisis could develop. Treasury officials say they're optimistic but their concern is apparent.

The government's plight was dramatized last month when nine billion dollars of loans supplied by private lenders came due. Like any harried debtor, Uncle Sam asked his creditors to renew the loans. As encouragement, he offered them new and more generous terms.

THE LENDERS — banks, corporations and individuals — had a choice. They could renew their loans for one year and collect 3 1/2 per cent interest or renew for three years and get 4 per cent. Historically, these interest rates are very high. In some cases, they were more than double the rate paid on the original loans.

Nevertheless, two billion dollars of loans were not renewed. The lenders wanted their money back. Uncle Sam had expected a sizable demand for cash — but not this much. He didn't have the funds to pay off the maturing loans and was forced to make an emergency borrowing.

This meant he was able to get all the credit he needed only on the second attempt. He had expected to get enough the first time. It was a sobering experience for the world's best credit risk.

What went wrong? There can be no precise answer since the result represented decisions by scores of lenders who didn't put their reasons in writing.

Treasury officials are inclined to blame "technical factors." However, they concede some of the responsibility belongs to these other — more ominous — factors:

1. Fear of rising interest rates in a period of economic recovery.
2. Fear of inflation.
3. If an investor believes inflation is the "wave of the future," he doesn't want to tie up his money in a government I.O.U. — a Treasury security — that would depreciate in value. He's more apt to invest in common stocks or real estate, hoping their value will keep pace with inflation.

ALL INTEREST rates tend to rise in periods of inflation. Lenders need more incentive to make a loan since they'll be paid back in dollars of diminishing value.

Meanwhile, the Federal Reserve Board has been restricting credit — in effect, holding down the supply of money available for lending. The board has done this in hopes of preventing an inflation of credit which could inflate the whole economy.

Both these developments have put upward pressure on interest rates.

Adding to that pressure, many investors have decided inflation is coming and so have declined to lend.

It is in this environment that the Treasury is financing a record national debt of 286 billion dollars. That it is having problems is not surprising.

Inquiry Begun Into Crash of Liner, Tanker

NEW YORK (AP) — Coast Guard investigators today were trying to find the cause of a collision between the American Export luxury liner Constitution and the Norwegian oil tanker Jalanta.

The bow of the tanker was sheared off but remained afloat.

The liner received a gash in her bow about 8 feet above the water line, 40 feet long and 15 feet wide.

Both ships made port without help after the collision Sunday outside New York harbor.

The accident occurred in a dense fog, shortly before 11 a.m., at a crossing of the sea lanes five miles southeast of Ambrose Light. Each ship had just completed an overhaul. The tanker which carried no cargo, had a crew of 42. The 30,000-ton liner carried a crew of 112 and 20 technicians. Two officials, one of the line and one of the shipyards, and their wives were aboard.

The Constitution was built in Quincy, Mass., in 1951 at a cost of 25 million dollars. She was returning from a multimillion-dollar conversion job at Newport News, Va.

The play goes on cross-country tour this spring and reaches Broadway next season.

In the juke box business and in trucking.

The Anti-Trust Division lawyers, though not anti-crime hawks, also keep a sharp eye out for other violations as they uncover competition — stifling conspiracies by the hoods. So it was that the cries of Dubinsky's aide, Sol Green, in charge of a section in New Jersey, were heeded by the mysterious New York grand jury.

Whatever evidence it finds of violence, destruction of property, perjury or other criminal offenses, this grand jury will pour back into the "warehouse" of information now run by Special U.S. Attorney Milton Wessel.

His unit is known as the Organized Crime and Racketeering Section (the "united prosecutive command"). It has analyzed, tracked, and turned over information to other enforcing units and grand juries. Then these forces will go after the hoods with whatever law is available.

Thus the Justice Dept. has been able to reach for the first time right into the hard coal fields, for example. There, one of the powerful in the combine called the Mafia, or the Apalachin assemblage, or just the mob, has been able to dominate a United Mine Workers Local, No. 805.

THIS ONE MAN powerhouse is known to the authorities as Nick Alaimo, committeeman of the Miners' local. His ties run through the mob network of garment shops reaching from the asphalt jungle to the "protected" dress factories of the Scranton — Pittston district of Pennsylvania.

On Feb. 18, the U.S. attorney for the area aided by an attorney — investigator for the "united prosecutive command" opened secret grand jury hearings in Scranton. They had subpoenaed Alaimo and some of his coal merchant friends.

This was not a fishing probe. The federalists went in with the specific objective of indicting Alaimo and others on charges of violating the Taft-Hartley law. The law has a section which forbids a union official to work closely with an employer for private gain while ostensibly conducting union business with the corporation.

Evidence of Alaimo's power is the fact that he has held office in the United Mine Workers local, defying even the prestige of John L. Lewis' national office.

ALAIMO IS TYPICAL of the type of operator sought by West's special Justice Dept. unit. Alaimo has set up independent garment and other industry unions. He is co-owner and manager of a Pittston garment factory. He was at Apalachin where the authorities believe he discussed his businesses and jurisdictions.

All his activities will be spot-checked by the special unit. After looking for possible violations of any and every conceivable U.S. law that can be broken by a union official doubling as a businessman, the special unit will turn to others who were at Apalachin.

This sifting process, this concentration of all data, is the federal government's new weapon.

Two Are Hurt In Three-Car Traffic Crash

Treated and Released From Hospital After N. Main St. Collision

Two persons were injured in one of six traffic accidents investigated Saturday and Sunday by Marion police.

Hurt in a three-car pileup at N. Main and Fairground streets Saturday afternoon were John C. Wright, 21, of 136 E. Fairground St., with injuries to his mouth and teeth, and Joseph D. Brady, 35, of 123 Reed Ave., with a neck injury. They were taken to Marion General Hospital for treatment and released.

Wright was driving north on N. Main St. and his car struck the one driven by Brady from the rear, police said. The impact pushed Brady's car into a third car driven by Gerald E. Fleming, 21, of 510 Patterson St. Both Fleming and Brady were stopped for the traffic light, according to the police report. Wright was issued a citation for failure to have assured clear distance ahead.

Cars driven by George C. Thompson, 54, of LaRue and Walter W. Pryor, 20 of 757 Silver St., were involved in an accident in the 200 block of W. Center St. at 12:41 p.m., Saturday.

Three cars were involved in an accident at Main and Center streets at 9:40 a.m. Sunday. A car driven by Dudley B. Reed, 49, of 730 King Ave. was struck from the rear by another car driven by Glenn Snavely of near Forest. The impact pushed Reed's car into the third car driven by Mrs. G. E. Speese of 117 Lusch Rd.

Each of the other three accidents in the city caused less than $100 total damage, Marion police estimated.

Mansfield Woman Hurt

A Mansfield woman was the only person injured in the six county accidents investigated over the weekend by Marion post-patrolmen.

Officers said Juanita Martin of Mansfield was treated by a Caladonia physician for shock after a mishap on Rt. 98 seven miles northeast of Marion at 10:15 p.m. Saturday.

She was a passenger in a northbound auto driven by Anna Brown, 48, of Mansfield, which careened into a ditch and struck a fence.

The vehicle was considerably damaged, as was the fence owned by Derold Jerue of near Marion.

Cars Damaged in Skid

A Toledo Ave. man was a passenger in an auto which skidded into his own disabled vehicle on Marion County Rd. 162 about one and one-half miles north of Marion at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, patrolmen reported.

They said Eugene Elliott, 42, of 393 Toledo Ave. was a passenger in the vehicle driven by Duane Kierns, 28, of the same address when the mishap occurred.

Elliott told patrolmen he abandoned his stalled vehicle and returned to Marion to seek Kierns' help. The two returned to the scene in Kierns' vehicle.

Upon reaching the location, the Kierns car attempted to pass the stalled auto to pull up in front of it. Confronted with oncoming traffic, Kierns applied the brakes and the car skidded into the Elliott auto.

Patrolmen said both vehicles were considerably damaged. Kierns was charged with failure to stop within assured clear distance.

Auto Overturns

Thomas W. Wylie, 16, of near Marion escaped injury when his southbound auto turned over on County Rd. 126 three miles south of Marion at 1:30 a.m. Sunday.

Officers said the car skidded out of control and swerved off the left side of the highway before turning over. It was only slightly damaged. Wylie was charged with driving left of center.

A 17-year-old Marion youth was arrested on a charge of failure to have a license after a mishap on County Rd. 109 two miles west of the city at 3 p.m. Sunday.

According to the report, his eastbound auto skidded backward off the road into a tree and was considerably damaged. He told patrolmen his car went out of control when he attempted to avoid striking a group of dogs crossing the roadway.

Moderate damage was done to a Forest man's auto when it swerved off Rt. 30-S two miles west of Marion at 2 a.m. Sunday and knocked down a route marker, also striking a fence.

Patrolmen said the westbound vehicle was driven by Harvey Dunn, 39, of Forest. The damaged fence was owned by Branch Roberts of near Marion.

Route 23, one-half mile north of Waldo, was the scene of a mishap Saturday at 9:30 p.m.

Officers said a northbound auto driven by Mrs. Dema L. Niedenfuhr, 57, of 340 Windsor St. careened off the right side of the Music Students From Harding And Waldo Get High Ratings

Participating in the district solo and ensemble contest Saturday in Bucyrus, several soloists and ensembles from both Harding High School and Waldo High School earned No. 1 ratings, entitling them to enter regional finals April 1 at Bowling Green.

Taking first place with solos were seven students from Harding and two from Waldo. Ensemble groups receiving the same rating numbered three from Harding and two from Waldo.

Harding soloists earning No. 1 ratings were: David Frost, trombone; Richard Mullins, sousaphone; Ronald Tarvin, violin; Jeff Coy, trumpet; Jo Ann Thomas, saxophone; Tony Drury, clarinet, and Dan Yinger, clarinet.

Waldo students getting top ratings were Linda Lichtenberger, saxophone, and Leon McCorkle Jr., baritone horn.

Ensemble Leaders

Groups from Waldo with top ratings were the boys' quartet composed of Leon McCorkle Jr., Douglas Denzer, Dan Dunlap and David Augenstein, and a trumpet trio consisting of Judy Newell, Judy Klingel and Douglas Denzer.

Identical Twin Shocks Wedding License Clerk

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Mrs. Neva Gray, marriage license clerk, was somewhat startled when A. D. Shinkle, 26, asked her to issue him a marriage license.

She told him she couldn't issue the license. "Why?" he asked. "You were in here this morning and applied for a license to marry Jacqueline L. Morrison — that's why."

Shinkle grinned. He explained that he planned to wed Mary Hayden and that his identical twin, L. D. Shinkle, was engaged to Miss Morrison.

Opinions Vary On Action for Crisis in Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress members spent a busy week-end giving opinions on the Berlin situation. The individual suggestions ranged from advice to take it easy on the diplomatic quarter-backing to a call for mobilization of additional troops.

Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, cautioned his colleagues against forcing President Eisenhower into a negotiating straitjacket.

Fulbright's reminder that the President has the basic responsibility for foreign policy was similar to that sounded earlier by Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill), Senate Republican leader.

Fulbright said no football team can expect to win a game with every man his own quarterback.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, the Senate majority leader, said the nation would stand united behind the President in the Berlin crisis. The world expects to hear "something more than partisan pride" from Washington, he told a week-end meeting of Democrats.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash) called for mobilization of four or five Army and National Guard divisions. He said such a move would be "a diplomatic signal to the Soviet Union that we mean business."

'Step by Step' Policy Offered By Macmillan

LONDON (AP) — British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan told Soviet television viewers tonight Britain and the U.S.S.R. "should each avoid acts which disturb the existing position anywhere in the world to the other's disadvantage."

Macmillan said in a prepared Moscow speech released here by the Foreign Office: "For such acts must, to use your own Prime Minister's words, produce dangerous situations."

Macmillan declared improved relations between the countries can be achieved "if we can make a start and go forward step by step."

"Agreement on one thing, he added, 'leads to agreement on another. It's the first step that counts. That's why I'm here.'"

Macmillan said he thought it would help if there were "thousands of visits to each other's countries by ordinary people."

"In the present state of the world, military conflict between great powers can bring victory to no one but must mean disaster for all," he said.

"Similarly, in the political field, an attempt to gain total victory may well produce disaster. So let us work together with patience and understanding."

posed, on Jan. 10, that a 28-nation conference be held to conclude separate peace treaties with West and East Germany as part of the Soviet plan to end the Allied occupation of West Berlin.

The West on Feb. 16 rejected the peace conference proposal and suggested instead a foreign ministers meeting to discuss the whole issue of German reunification. The West also restated its determination not to be driven out of Berlin, saying it could not accept the Soviets' unilateral ending of the World War II occupation.

Russians Stand Firm
Khrushchev in his speech last week also stuck to the long-standing Soviet position on German reunification, that it must be negotiated by the two German governments and not by the Big Four.

West Germany, with full Allied backing, refuses to recognize the East German regime to the extent of holding political negotiations with it.

Macmillan told Soviet leaders in Leningrad Sunday night that his talks with Khrushchev, while yielding no immediate results, "will be of great assistance in the international discussions which must lie ahead."

"I say that these discussions must lie ahead because I firmly believe that the dangerous situation with which we may be faced cannot be resolved without negotiations," Macmillan declared.

Producer on Broadway Given Theater Citation

NEW YORK (AP) — The Barter Theater of Abingdon, Va., has given its award for "most distinguished contribution to the American theater" to Broadway Producer Robert Whitehead.

It is the first time a non-actor received the citation. Whitehead started out as a player, however, 21 years ago. He is currently head of the Producers Theater and consultant on the Lincoln Square arts center.

Story of Development of Atom
Bomb Told in 'Great Decision'

By W. G. ROGERS

Associated Press Book Critic

THE GREAT DECISION: The Secret History of the Atomic Bomb. By Michael Amrine. Putnam, $3.95.

At the end of his first Cabinet meeting, Truman, the new President, learned for the first time from Secretary of War Stimson that an atomic bomb was being constructed. It was a secret on which he had nearly stumbled when in the Senate his own Truman Committee wondered about phenomenal expenditures at a couple of the secretive Army's western installations.

As Roosevelt had not told him—Churchill on the contrary informed his friends and even his Parliamentary opposition—Alloch himself did not pass the word on to Byrnes, and the United Nations was organized at San Francisco by United States delegates who had no inkling of this incalculably momentous development. Truman told Stalin, without using the key word "atomic." And the warning to Japan in the Potsdam Declaration was fantastically vague.

A great deal about the bomb picture is vague. We learn that Stimson had visions of the most disturbing problems in the future, that Admiral Leahy never wanted the bomb used at all, that the attitude of leading scientists was ambiguous, or at least variously interpreted. Still, not one bomb but two dropped on Japanese cities, and the war soon ended.

Amrine leans a bit more toward blaming Truman than is perhaps justified by the facts he presents, or at least by my reading of them; for instance, to say Churchill approved in theory but not in the explicit event is to quibble. But no one will quarrel with Amrine's belief that the bombings made us Americans look unexpectedly barbaric to Asians, that it is still not possible to wipe out some fearsome doubts about the righteousness of our bloody deed, and that the world since Aug. 6, 1945, has been an immeasurably different place. Amrine is overly fond of italics, exclamation points and other juvenile devices, but he is a crusader and a moralist, and addresses himself directly to the American conscience.

What is believed to be the only statue in the nation showing Abraham Lincoln and Mary Todd Lincoln together stands in a park in downtown Racine, Wis.

Harding To Meet Lima Senior in District Tourney

Mansfield Cagers Clip Ashland Team

Coach Don Knodel and his Harding basketball squad, already with a sectional co-championship tucked away, today opened a week of "real hard" work.

The Presidents will be matched against a tall and talented Lima Senior squad here Friday night in their opening district tournament test.

The Prexies drew the Lima team during drawings held Sunday at the Highway Hotel. The Presidents will meet Lima in the opener Friday at 7 p.m. with Mansfield, the other Marion Sectional winner, going against Lima Central Catholic in the nightcap. The two winners will meet Saturday night at the Coliseum with a berth in the Toledo Regional event at stake.

KNODEL REPORTED today he plans one of his team's hardest practice stints this week. Harding scouts watched the Lima team in its win over Delphis St. John Friday night and spent the week mapping plans for the contest.

"They are a big team," Knodel said. The Lima squad's chief threat is a 6-6 pivotman carrying a 20-point, scoring average. The entire starting lineup towers above the six-foot mark and Knodel is planning his practices to counteract a height disadvantage. "They play a full court man-to-man defense. They're pretty fast and they like to run with the ball," Knodel reported.

"We know what we have to do," the Harding coach said. We think we can win and if we don't it won't be due to lack of work. Our boys are ready for a hard week of work."

Knodel also urged Marion fans to pick up their tickets early. Approximately 1,000 tickets went on sale today at the school. A sell-out is expected at the Coliseum and local fans can avoid the rush by buying tickets early.

IN ACTION Saturday night in sectional Class AA tourney play on the Coliseum floor, Mansfield's Tiger five won the right to play in the district alongside Harding by downing a stubborn Ashland crew 57-42.

It was the 104th meeting between the two quintets and Mansfield now has an edge in the won-lost column of 59-45. The Tigers had downed the Arrows twice before this season on counts of 50-39 and 68-50.

The game was more hectic Saturday, however, than the final score indicates. In fact, with 5:46 gone in the third period, Coach Vern Hoffman's boys were deadlocked with George Valentine's lads at 28-28. Mansfield had forged to an eight-point lead at the quarter's end, 37-29, and at the 7:47 mark in the finale had a 10-point bulge at 39-29.

But Ashland came on from there to slice the Tiger lead to a slim four points with 1:15 left to play. Mansfield got off to a good start and led the Arrows 13-7 at the quarter. They were in the van 27-21 at intermission.

By game's end, Ashland had been beaten at the foul line. Mansfield rolled in 16 goals and 25 of 38 free throws. Ashland managed 14 from the field and only 14 in the bonus circle out of 29 chances. A total of 47 fouls were tatted in the fracas, 22 against Mansfield, 25 against the losing Arrows.

on 4 goals and 5 free throws. Hal Snyder was close behind with 12, while Vic Pitzemayer posted 10. Steve Enck's 12 points on 4 from the field and 4 from the charity circle paced the Ashland attack.

The Tigers lost Don Ragsdale via the foul route with 1:02 left in the third. Ted Fister went out at the 4:07 mark in the same session. Bob Sweet and Dave Wall were both banished from the Ashland lineup in the finale, Sweet departing with 1:01 left, Wait at the 7:56 point.

Local Midgits Win

Dayton Swimmers Defeat Marion in 3 Age Groups

Dayton's National YMCA champions came, saw, and conquered the Marion tank squad at the local "Y" Saturday.

Marion's midget team, winner of the Marion Relays title, ended its season on a high note by downing Dayton in a squeaker, 26-24. Wins by backstroke Jay Casey and breaststroke Eric Ruppert paced the locals in individual events then Casey and Ruppert combined with Jim Casey and Gary McKenzie to edge Dayton in the medley relay by inches for the victory.

IN PREP ACTION, Dayton won easily 50-27 behind its all-American quartet that allowed Marion only two firsts by Jay Plymale in the 25 yard freestyle sprint and diver Dave Richards. The Dayton relay teams, holders of the national records, set a new pool record in the medley to edge a Marion team that also was under the old pool mark. Gardner of Dayton also broke Tom Shambaugh's individual medley mark by beating him in the grueling event.

Marion's juniors took five firsts but failed to win a relay in a 47-30 loss as Dayton's depth took its toll of points. Tom Ivers of Marion was a double winner in near record times while Dave Rothwell, Mike Bartley and Bob White all scored wins.

Dayton's defending national and area intermediate champs had a real scare before downing a scrappy Marion team 46-40 to end a five-meet victory string for the locals. After two events the Marion team was ahead 15-1 behind the winning efforts of the quarter of Ed Cooper, Al McKee, Bruce Kohler and Dan Thompson in the medley relay and a sweep by Kohler and Bob Finney in the 50 yard freestyle. Dayton slowly fought its way back as Weller just edged an ailing Al McKee in the butterfly and Brinkman came from behind to nip Dan Thompson in the 200 yard freestyle. Ed Cooper again won the backstroke for an unbeaten season and Kohler took the century freestyle over Brinkman in his top effort of the season.

A SWEEP by Stover and McCluskey in the breaststroke in a very close race put Dayton close for the first time. Dick Flynn edged Marion's Finney and White in a close diving contest then Stover came back from his pool record effort in breaststroke to win the individual medley in near record time over Cooper. Dayton was still down by one point going into the final freestyle relay and won going away to come from behind despite a great effort at an upset in one of the best Marion teams in years.

Next week the Marion team will travel to Bowling Green State University to battle for places in the area championships at Ohio State March 21. In district action, the top six swimmers in each event will continue on to finals action. The preps however will end their season at the district level with final area standings determined on a postal basis.

Finnish Squad Hikes Lead in Skating Action

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—Finland's small but potent team of skating, ski jumping and cross-country stars was favored today to build its already heavy domination in North American championships testing the 1960 winter Olympics site.

Juhani Jarvinen won a world record 1500 meter skating victory Sunday in 2 minutes 6.3 seconds and quickly followed that with a second place in the 10,000 meter grind and a combined skating title.

Kalevin Karkinen next triumphed in the 80 meter special ski jumping with crowd-awing grace in the Finnish-developed flying-V jumping style. His longest leap was 290.3 feet.

Veikko Hakulinen and Kalvi Hamalainen rated today as top contenders in the 15 kilometer cross country ski race. They were second and third after Sweden's Sixten Jernberg in the 30 kilometer durability test Saturday.

Gene Kotlarek, 18-year-old Duluth, Minn., college freshman and called by the Finns the first American to master their jumping style, finished a close second to Karkinen in the 80 meter jumps.

Norway's Knut Johannessen won his second skating crown with a 16:42.7 time in the 10,000 meters, the fastest ever in America for the event. Johannessen won the 5,000 meter race Saturday and finished second to Finland's Jarvinen in the combined skating championship.

MPS Softball Nine Cited During Dinner Session

Members of the Marion Power Shovel Co. softball team, winners of the Industrial League championship last fall, were guests of the company at an informal victory dinner Saturday night at the Highway Hotel restaurant.

Special guests were Richard Roseberry, Willard Higgins Sr., Dwight Corwin and P. L. Owens. Team members attending were Bob Higgins, Don Moore, Harold Robertson, Carl Hindman, Roscoe Gruber Jr., Fritz Walters, Bill Darnell, Carl Uline, Jack Higgins, Lowell Thacker, Murray Carpenter, Harold Conley, Wallace Predmore and Harley Boles. Company representatives present were Bob Scott, Walt Corrigan, Dick Myers and Ed Marink.

Raps Defeatist Attitude Gang Up on Yanks, Frank Lane Urges

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Frank Lane, blunt-spoken general manager of the Cleveland Indians, has made a frank exhortation to the other American League clubs to join him in all-out warfare against the New York Yankees.

"We should all have one common objective," declared the fiery Lane. "That is to do everything in our power — on the field, of course — to prevent the Yankees from winning again."

Task Can Be Performed
"I feel we can do it," he added, "if we get together and make up our minds to throw only the best pitchers against the Yankees. If we all concentrate on that I'm willing to bet this season will be remembered as the year the Yankees did not win the pennant."

"The trouble with some of the other clubs is that they have dropped a cloak of invincibility over the Yankees. We must destroy this illusion. The Yankees are good but they are not an outstanding club by any means. They are benefiting from a certain momentum, a carryover from previous winning clubs."

Lane's latest blast at the Yankees came in the nature of a parting shot. A St. Petersburg, Fla., resident, he left immediately for the Indians' training camp at Tucson, Ariz.

"The Yankees wouldn't have won last year if Bob Turley and Ryne Duren hadn't come through," Lane said. "And Duren was a distinct surprise. They certainly didn't win because of their hitting."

3 Players Over 40
"They don't figure to be any better this year. When a Yankee team goes into spring training with three players 40 years old and over, that's an indication they are hurting."

Since Mickey joined Washington in 1939, he needs play only one game in 1960 to have seen action in four decades.

Purchased from Boston in January 1958, Vernon was a godsend last year to the Indians. He played 119 games at first base after Vic Wertz broke his leg. Until August, he was among the top 10 hitters in the league and wound up with a .293 average. His lifetime average is .287.

Vernon, who was league batting champ in 1946 and 1953, says he will be content to fill in, at first base and pinch hit this year.

As for playing in a World Series, Mickey says:

"I think I've got a chance this year... If the Yankees can be beaten, we're the club to do it."

Vernon says he feels no worse now "than I did five years ago. 'Not at the plate, anyway. I've just slowed up a little in the field. Can't move as quick.'"

Lane did not say so outright but he indicated certain clubs last year assumed a defeatist attitude when playing the Yankees.

"Some clubs figured why use their best pitchers and take a chance on losing when Whitey Ford was scheduled to pitch for the Yankees," he said. "A weak club is next so they saved the best for an almost certain victory. We must adopt a gang-up policy on the Yankees this year."

Vernon Seeks Four Goals in '59 Campaign

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Mickey Vernon, over 40 and frisky, still has hopes of appearing in a World Series before he ends his baseball career.

The slim first baseman, who swung a powerful bat for the Cleveland Indians last year, lists the world series hopes among four goals he wants to attain before hanging up his spikes. And he expects to have at least two more seasons in which to see his hopes realized.

He wants to reach the 2,500 mark in hits, become a 20-year man and play baseball in four decades.

Vernon needs only 26 hits to reach 2,500, and if he remains on a club roster until July 9, 1960, he will have reached two other goals. On that date he becomes eligible for the American League's lifetime gold pass that goes to 20-year-men.

12 Unfilled in NCAA 42 Spots Remain Open For 4 Top Tournaments

By The Associated Press
College basketball goes into the final week of the regular season today with 42 teams needed to fill the brackets in the four major post season tournaments.

There are 12 spots left for the big boys—eight in the NCAA 23-team university division and four in the 12-team National Invitation Tournament starting March 12 at New York's Madison Square Garden.

The NCAA also has four unfilled brackets for its 32-team small college championship, winding up with the eight regional winners meeting at Evansville, Ind., March 11-13. Games Monday and Tuesday will complete the field.

26 Open in NAIA
The NAIA, which brings together 32 small college teams in a week-long tourney starting in Kansas City March 16, still has 26 spots open. They will be filled in playoffs this week. Tennessee A&I, winner the last two years, already has accepted an invitation.

Here is how the NCAA major championship shapes up in the four regions, from which will come the winners for the championship semifinals and finals at Louisville March 20-21:

EASTERN—The Southern Conference Tournament for the fifth straight year; St. Joseph's of Philadelphia, best in the Middle Atlantic Conference, and Navy, an at-large entry are in.

Still to be named are winners of the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament starting at Raleigh, N.C. Thursday, the Ivy League and Yankee Conference representatives and an at-large team. Princeton and Dartmouth are tied for the Ivy lead at 12-1 and will meet in a playoff if they both win their final games this week. Connecticut has clinched at least a tie in the Yankee Conference.

Bearcats Set Pace
MIDWEST—Eastern Kentucky of the Ohio Valley Conference; Kentucky, named SEC representative when conference winner Mississippi State declined because it doesn't play against Negroes; Michigan State, champion of the Big Ten and Marquette and Louisville, at-large entries, have qualified. Selection of the Mid-American representative will complete the bracket. Miami of Ohio leads with 9-2. Bowling Green is second with 9-3.

MIDWEST—Complete except for Missouri Valley representative

Johnson Nails Baton Rouge's Golfing Crown

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Husky Howie Johnson's philosophy of taking golf one hole at a time paid off in the $15,000 Baton Rouge Open Tournament.

He was five strokes off the pace Sunday when he began the tough 36-hole grind, made necessary when rain delayed the start of the tournament one day.

Loses 4 Stroke Lead
After 18 holes, Jay Hebert of Sanford, Fla., who shot a 68, still held a four-stroke edge on the 33-year-old San Marcos, Calif., professional, who marked up a two-under-par 70.

But on the final round, while the top men ran into trouble, Johnson calmly added his second 70 for 283 and a one-stroke victory over Hebert, who soared to 75.

The 283 total was the highest winning score in the eight-year history of the tournament, but not surprising since three days of rain preceded the tournament, soaking the 6,467-yard Baton Rouge Country Club course with three inches of water.

It was only Johnson's second PGA victory in almost three years as a professional.

McMullin Takes Third
John McMullin, Fair Oaks, Calif., who led the first two days, finished with rounds of 75 and 72 for 285 and third money.

Paul Harney, Worcester, Mass., and Doug Ford, Paradise, Fla., tied for fourth at 286. Harney recorded 72 and 74 while Ford was even par 72 both times.

Defending champion Ken Venturi of Palo Alto, Calif., who won last year by a record four strokes with 276, finished in a tie for 26th place at 292.

Winner of 8 Letters Albie Booth, Yale Grid Hero, Dies in New York

NEW YORK (AP)—The nation's sports fans today mourned Albert (Albie) Booth — the man who emulated heroic fiction with his athletic feats at Yale.

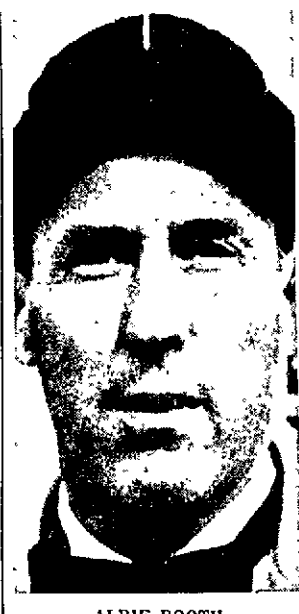

The former football star, who was 51, died of a heart attack early Sunday morning after attending a Broadway play with his wife.

Booth was the second Yale football great to die within two weeks. Bruce Caldwell, who preceded Booth at the New Haven, Conn. school, died Feb. 15 after a long illness. He was 53.

Booth was still a well known figure to football fans. He was one of the country's top football officials and officiated at such classics as the Army-Navy game.

Booth managed an ice cream company in New Haven. He is survived by his wife, Marion, and two daughters. He was a resident of Hamden, Conn., a New Haven suburb.

Booth ruled the athletic scene at Yale from 1929-31. He played football, basketball and baseball, enshrining himself as the greatest of Yale's athletes.

Klassi Keglers rolled Saturday at the Plaza Lanes. The Pin Pounders were on the alleys Sunday. Palace leaguers were in action Saturday at the Palace, while Ladies Commercial and Erie scorers were in action Saturday at the Marion Recreation Center and Mr. and Mrs. and Moosemen took to the boards Sunday.

In Klassi Kegler play, Fred Berry was high for the men with 210 and 530 totals, while Betty Koudelka rolled a 157 to pace the women in singles activity. Donna Holbrook and Dick Peak converted 5-7 and 5-10 splits respectively.

Harley Slater paced the men in the Pin Pounders scoring, totaling 197 and 546 games. Imogene Slater had the high series for the women with 403 pins, while Maxine Hughes rolled a 169. Others scoring highs included Chuck Zirnheld, 598; Russell Reichardt, 502; Marge Osterholt, 393; Betty Hodge, 390; Don Shoemaker, 194; Bob Hunter, 186; Violet Eymann, 158. Splits were converted by James Gibson, 5-9-10, and Irene Miers, 2-7.

Pacing the Palace loop were Dick Kingsley and George Barkley, scoring respective 233 and 593 totals. Darrell Murton had a 229, 211-598; Sam Van Voorhis a 213-200-553; Zane Plumley, 212; Carl Thomas, 201; George Barkley, 224; Dick Chamberlain, 202; Irwin Bumgarner, 201; Cliff Willis, 559. Henry Boat had team highs of 938 and 2775.

Leading the Ladies Commercial were Vada Lee and Mickey Carpenter, posting highs of 187 and 526. Credited with additional highs were Evelyn Shaw, 184; Mary Brown, 181; Nellie Gorenflo, 178-499; Mary Anderson, 174. Miss Carpenter posted her 526 series on

'Y' Wrestlers Score Sweep Over Ashland

The Marion YMCA Wrestling team smashed Ashland's hopes for revenge Saturday as the local team piled up its first perfect match of the season over a team made up of Ashland High School wrestlers.

The final figure, 33-0, was not, however, indicative of the closeness of the match as only two of the contests in the nine-match card were ended with pins, and several of the encounters were decided by just a few points difference. The team's next encounter will be in the Marion Invitational Saturday at 1 p.m.

Dale Kibbey, wrestling at 120 pounds, began the victory march for Marion with a 6-3 decision win over Arnie Halterman. Both men scored in the first period but Kibbey took a 4-3 edge at the end of the second frame. Two markers for riding time put Kibbey out of touch of the Ashland grappler who until Saturday, Marion, wrestlers had never been able to beat.

Lenavitt Scores Pin
Joel Lenavitt continued the parade with a pin over Sponser in the second period. Lenavitt gained a five-point bulge in the first stanza with a take down and near fall and was able to apply the terminating hold late in the second period.

Co-captain Bill Thatcher improved his record with a convincing second period pin of Harris, co-captain of the Ashland High School team. Thatcher ran up a 9-5 margin over the loser before gaining the fall.

Harry Spring continued the winning ways with a 5-0 decision victory over Gary Halterman. Spring scored in the first and second periods and gained a point on riding time to clinch the match for Marion.

Bud Kelley remained undefeated as he did everything but pin Springer in grabbing off a 13-2 decision victory. Consistent scoring along with two near falls gave Kelley the easy win.

John Keller stepped to the mat to receive a forfeit from injured Don Ducon to add five more points to the Marion total.

Gibson Continues Spree
Jerry Gibson won a hard fought 3-1 victory over stubborn Stouffer of Ashland. Gibson scored one point in the second period along with two in the third frame while his opponent could only muster one point in the last stanza.

Clyde Thomas put together two victories for Marion, wrestling at 175, his usual spot, and at unlimited in place of ailing Pete Wolfinger. Thomas won over his old rival Gary Newcomer at 175 by a close 4-2 margin and then returned to the mat to stop heavyweight Pifer 10-4. A four point barrage in the second period gave him the win over Newcomer, and a near fall along with two penalty points gave him the nod over Pifer.

In exhibition action Chris Kimball fell victim to a questionable hold to be pinned in the first period and Bill Haynes pinned McFadden late in the second stanza.

Jenkins Wins Third Straight Skating Title

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Age, career and the flashing skates of an 18-year-old Canadian look like the combination that may bust up the United States' 12-year monopoly of the world figure skating men's championship.

Dave Jenkins, 22, won his third straight title Saturday night to make it No. 7 for the Jenkins family of Colorado Springs. His brother, Hayes Alan, reigned from 1933 through 1958. Dick Button started the U.S. string in 1948 with the first of five championships.

Jenkins, medical student at Western Reserve University, said he'll retire from competitive skating after next year's Olympics and world championships. He said he must devote more time to his studies.

On his free skating performance Saturday night, Jenkins rates as top favorite for the Olympics. But he's going to receive stiff competition from Don Jackson, Toronto Skating Club star who finished second here.

Canton McKinley Nails State Swimming Title

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — For the fourth straight year, and the 11th time over-all, Canton McKinley is the state high school swimming champion.

The Bulldogs tallied 48-points in the two-day meet at Ohio State University. The final events were held Saturday.

Berea finished second with 30 points and its swimmers broke two national high school records in the 200-yard medley relay and the 100-yard backstroke.

There were 34 schools represented.

Those scoring, besides Canton McKinley and Berea, were:

Cincinnati Woodward 27, Cincinnati Western Hills 22, Sandusky 21, Kent State 19, Lakewood 18, Cincinnati Withrow 14, Fremont and Upper Arlington 11, Cuyahoga Falls 8, Cincinnati Walnut Hills and Columbus Academy 7, Shaker Heights 5, Cleveland Shaw 3, Bexley and Lima 2 1/2.

Summit Session Possible

Russian Move Will Get Close Attention by U.S.

The following interpretive was written by John M. Hightower on receipt of reports that the Soviet Union has accepted the Western proposal for a foreign ministers meeting. The interpretive is based on Hightower's recent discussions with State Department officials and other Washington authorities.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union's reported proposal for a summit conference to follow a meeting of foreign ministers seems assured of serious consideration by the United States and its Western allies.

Top officials here have foreseen for some weeks the probability of a summit session this year.

The White House maintained silence on Russia's note.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said a translation had not been received in Washington and therefore, there will be no comment at this time.

Door Kept Open
The reported Soviet formula kept open the possibility that negotiations between the U.S.S.R. and the Western powers can be employed to avert or delay a war-threatening showdown over Berlin.

Apprehension that this might not be possible in the long run was felt here last week after Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in a speech rejected the Western proposal for a foreign ministers session to deal with reunification as well as all other German issues.

It was noted then, however, that while Khrushchev clearly preferred a summit conference, he would not send Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to any lower level meeting.

Top Level Meeting
One possibility, foreseen here for some time, was that in order to minimize the danger of war on East German questions, the Western powers would have to accept at least the principle of following a foreign ministers meeting with a conference of government heads.

The United States first will have to determine its own position, then consult in detail with Britain, France and West Germany and finally seek the opinion and approval of the rest of the NATO allies.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan has made no secret of Waste in Military Aid Cited in Probe Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee reports much waste in American military aid overseas. Without naming the nations involved, the subcommittee, headed by Rep. Thomas E. Morgan (D-Pa.), cited these examples:

1. One country used U.S. facilities, earmarked for military purposes, to build private planes for its officers.
2. An installation had a 185-year supply of a single item of ammunition.
3. A foreign motor pool received enough U.S. tires one year to put 44 tires on each truck it operated.

State Counts 8 Traffic Deaths For Weekend

Other Type Mishaps Are Fatal to 3 Others, Hike Ohio Toll to 11

By The Associated Press
Ohio's accidental death toll fell slightly this weekend.

An Associated Press survey shows that 11 persons died accidentally in Ohio between 6 p.m. Friday and Midnight Sunday.

Thirteen were accidentally killed in the same period last weekend.

Of the 11 deaths this weekend, eight were the result of traffic accidents and three of miscellaneous accidents.

The fatalities:

Friday night
Mrs. Louise Anderson, about 66, Canton, when struck by a car while walking along a Canton road.

Ralph Gifford, 25, Buena Vista (Scioto County), in an auto collision on U. S. 25, 20 miles west of Portsmouth.

Alvin L. Emerick, 29, Aquilla Ky., in an auto collision at the Village (Geauga County), in an auto-truck collision on U. S. 6 just east of Chardon Village.

Saturday
Howard Carter, 51, Lexington, intersection of U. S. 23 and Ohio 665 just south of Columbus at Shadeville.

James Lee Armitage, 2, Columbus, drowned in the Olentangy River near his home.

Carl J. Griffin, 47, Mineral Ridge (Trumbull County), when his car left Ohio 46 and hit a tree just north of the Mahoning County line in Trumbull County.

Owens Hardy, 64, Cleves, (Hamilton County) when the car in which he was riding skidded and overturned on U. S. 52 west of New Richmond in Clermont County.

Frazier McGhee, 48, Hamilton, apparently of carbon monoxide poisoning from a gas space heater in his apartment.

Gordon Gear, 24, Fostoria, when

Sheriff's Reports

A breaking and entering at the New Bloomington Elevator was reported at 8:22 a.m. today by Guy Smith of New Bloomington.

Deputies said thieves smashed a window on the west side of the building and took three boxes of candy bars from the office. Value of the candy was set at $10.

Gene Toombs of 269 Park Blvd. reported Sunday afternoon that his jacket was stolen from the Plaza Lanes bowling center.

the car in which he was riding crashed into a concrete bridge abutment on U. S. 224, 2½ miles west of Tiffin.

Sunday
Norman Floyd Peltz, 24, Dayton, when his car struck a tree in Dayton.

W. J. Warner, 39, Fort Wayne, Ind., brakeman for the Nickel Plate Railroad, when he stepped in front of a switch engine in the Nickel Plate yards east of Fostoria.

Ohio Capital's News Blackout In Fourth Day

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — No let up is in sight in the strike by pressmen which has left Ohio's capital city without its own newspapers for four days.

News-hungry residents scooped up all out-of-town newspapers Sunday and were paying as much as $1 a copy for editions brought in by "scalpers" from Cleveland and Cincinnati.

George H. Bell, federal mediator, indicated he hoped to resume negotiations this week between representatives of the striking Web Pressmen's Union, Local 15, and this city's newspapers—the Columbus Dispatch, the Citizen and the morning Ohio State Journal. The Dispatch and the Journal are published by the Dispatch Printing Co. and the Citizen is an E.W. Scripps publication.

Columbus only other newspaper, the weekly Columbus Star, published Tuesday, is next in line to be affected by the walkout which started last Thursday.

OUT ON HIS LIMBS—Abu, the orangutan, goes through his contortions just to get visitors to the London zoo to break down and toss a tidbit or two his way.

LONG WAY FOR A COFFEE BREAK—Repairman Frank Miller needs plenty of getup and go as he climbs toward the top of a one-thousand-foot television tower in Topeka, Kan. Miller's job is to change warning light bulb in tower beacon.

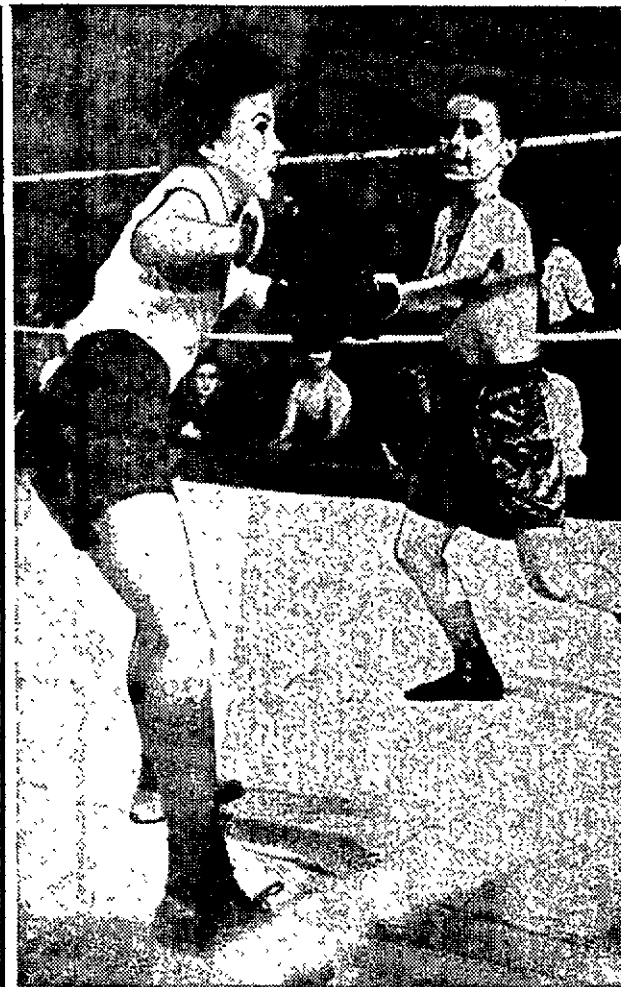

STONE CEMETERY—A graveyard effect is achieved by large, numbered stones stacked outside Capitol in Washington. The stones, numbered for future use, were removed from the repaired building.

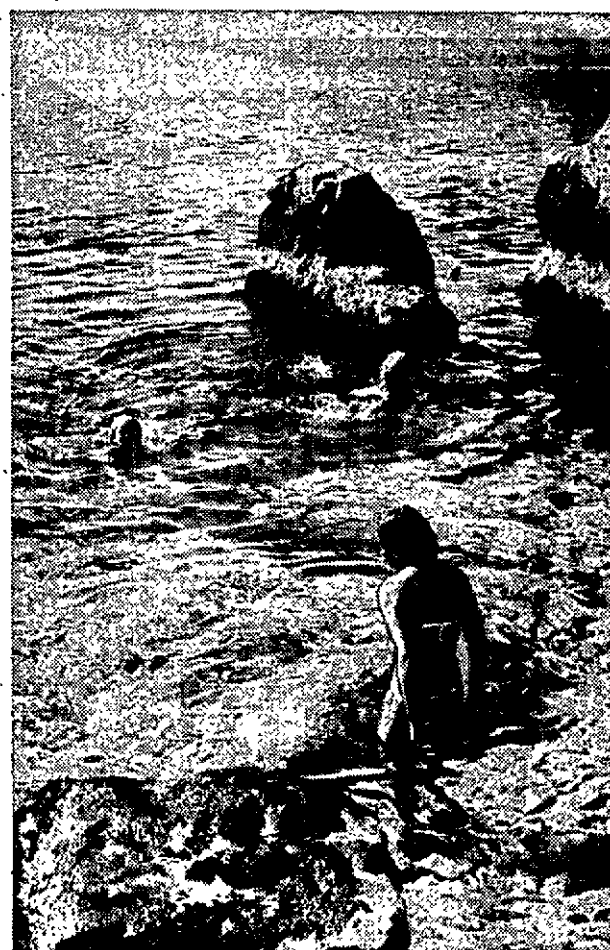

Golden Boy Elite stands erect on four legs.

Jeanette, Dr. Mullins' daughter, holds artificial leg.

BOY BEATS GIRL?—That's what one would expect when a 10-year-old boy squares off against a nine-year-old girl, but this bout in Dallas, Tex., ended in a draw. Ron Bryant is sad, Pam Sproule glad.

NICE IS NICE—While most other people in Europe are shivering in winter, swimmers frolic in the waters of blue Mediterranean at Nice, France.

Young Phil Mullins cuddles his pedigree pal.

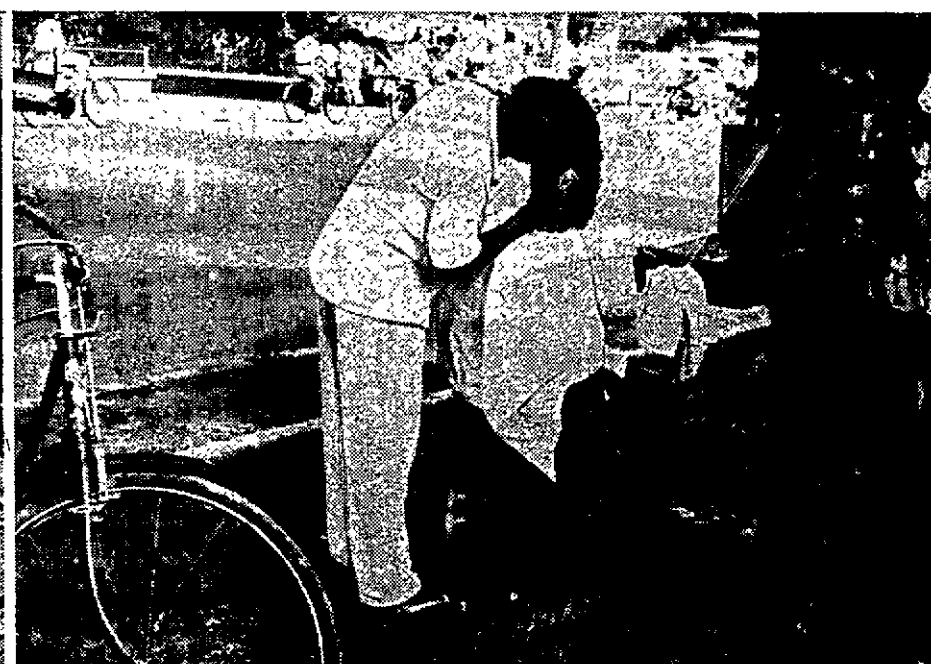

After his master removed artificial leg, the Shetland enjoys romp on three legs.

PLUCKY PEGLEG

AS GAME as any horse on four legs is Golden Boy Elite, a Shetland pony with three good legs and one artificial one. The spunky Shetland, owned by a dentist, Dr. L. M. Mullins, of Nashville, Tenn., broke his right foreleg when he was two months old. The broken leg became infected and had to be removed above the knee. This would have broken most any horse, but Golden Boy Elite showed his spirit by getting around on his three legs. His owner then decided to get him an artificial leg. After six weeks of adjustment, the eight-month-old colt is able to move with ease on his plastic and pipe leg. The leg has a plastic socket and an adjustable pipe which can be lengthened as he grows.

DISK CLICK—American singer Brenda Lee, 14, signs autographs on photos she will send out to fans in Paris. She's on song tour.

NOT MUCH OVERHEAD—A "sidewalk barber" sets up shop and gives his customer a trim in Djakarta, Indonesia. The barber hangs his mirror and tools on a tree, unfolds his chair and is ready for business. The outdoor barbers have "leases" on certain trees in the area. That bicycle (left) belongs to customer.

THE HEART OF JULIET JONES By Stan Drake

I WOULD SUGGEST YOU PHONE MRS. MAPES. I'VE ALREADY SENT HER FLOWERS IN YOUR NAME, PAUL.

ABOUT THE CALL—NO MOTHER, TONIGHT I'M A FREE AGENT—I FOLLOW MY HEART, NOT THE TRAIL OF THE ALMIGHTY DOLLAR!

FINE—ABOUT THE FLOWERS, I MEAN—

DANIEL—SEE WHERE HE GOES... AND WHOM HE MEETS!

BLONDIE By Chic Young

DAGWOOD, THERE'S A FLY IN MY OFFICE THAT'S DRIVING ME CRAZY—COME IN AND KILL IT!

WHENEVER THE BOSS HAS A REAL IMPORTANT JOB TO DO, HE SENDS FOR ME.

I GOT IT!

WHAP

DAGWOOD, HAVE YOU EVER CONSIDERED HAVING YOURSELF MOUNTED?

DICK TRACY By Chester Gould

THREE DOWN, ONE TO GO! AT LEAST, THAT'S THE WAY TRACY AND HIS MEN HAVE IT FIGURED.

HERE ARE THE GAS MASKS.

ALL DESERTED ME! I'VE GOT YELLOW COWARDS FOR SONS! THAT'S WHAT I'VE GOT COWARDS FOR SONS!

LET THEM GO (COUGH, COUGH)—I'LL DIE IN THIS TEAR GAS BEFORE I'LL LEAVE MY PROPERTY.

THE OLD HURRICANE BURIED THIS STREETCAR. IT LEADS TO THE STATION SHED AND THAT LEADS TO A VENTILATOR SHUT WHERE I CAN GET OUT.

BEETLE BAILEY By Mort Walker

BEETLE! GET OUTA HERE! YOU MAKE ME ITCH!

ALWAYS HOVERING AROUND! WHAT A PEST!

THE NEXT TIME I CATCH YOU ON MY NECK I'LL SWAT YOU ONE!!

DON'T BITE HIM... HE'S ONE OF US!

ARCHIE By Mort Walker

I'M GLAD YOU CAME EARLY, SIR! DID THIS CHEER FOR TONIGHT'S GAME?... WE START WITH A ROCK'N'ROLL BEAT!

AS THE CHORUS SINGS TO SIX ELECTRIC GUITARS... THE BOYS DO HANDSPRINGS AND THE GIRLS TWIRL HULA-HOOPS!

VERONICA DOES A TAP DANCE ON THREE DRUMS, AND WHITE DOLLS ARE RELEASED!

THERE'S ONLY ONE THING MISSING! WHAT?

THE GAME! IT'S OUT OF TOWN!

GASOLINE ALLEY By Frank King

Rufus! We don't need you today.

Mr. Wait. But I've got a chance for a new job. Could you give me a recommendation?

You have always done your work well, Rufus. I'll be glad to.

Thanks, Mr. Wait.

Rufus has worked for me four years. Has always been industrious, careful and respectful. I recommend him highly.

Just what wanted, Mr. Wait. Thanks a lot!

JOE PALOOKA By Ham Fisher

I NEVER EXPECTED WALSH TO SHOW UP... I'M LEAVING!

OH, HOOBY DEAR... YOU'RE M-HURT?

I'M O-KAY, KITTY... THESE FLOWERS ARE FOR YOU AND THE CANDY'S FOR YOU, FOLKS.

MR. WALSH FOUGHT FOR OUR DAUGHTER... OOH—IT'S SO ROMANTIC.

TCH, TCH... IT'S GOING TO BE HARD TO CALL HIM "SON."

TERRY AND THE PIRATES By George Wunder

SHUT UP YOU FOOL! THIS IS YOUR LUCKY DAY—UP TO NOW!

THAT ARROGANT PIG! OOOOH! MY NECK! I'D LIKE TO...

REMYND ME NEVER TO GAMBLE WITH YOU, WHAT CHANCE WOULD I HAVE AGAINST ONE WHO DISPLEASURES THE SECRET POLICE AND GETS OFF WITH MERELY A CLOUT ON THE EAR?

COLONEL, THE LIEUTENANT JUST TRIED TO HELP YOUR PRISONER WITH HER BUNdle. WE OF THE RED AIR FLEET ARE UNUSED TO SUCH TREATMENT!

INDEED, MAJOR? PERHAPS I SHOULD HAVE GIVEN HIM A MEDAL—THE KNP YOU PEOPLE ARE AWARDED FOR SHOOTING DOWN UNARMED AMERICAN TRANSPORTS!

RIP KIRBY By John Prentice

QUITE A PARTY, KEN, WHO ARE ALL THESE PEOPLE?

HOW SHOULD I KNOW, RIFT I'M ONLY THE "HOST"!

SO YOU'RE RIP KIRBY, THE FAMOUS DETECTIVE. I'LL BET YOU'RE SEARCHING FOR THE LOST CHORD.

LATER, COMES THAT RHYME "LATER, RIGHT NOW I'LL SETTLE FOR MIDDLE C..."

BUT DO ME A FAVOR—PLAY THE PIANO AND LEND SOME CLASS TO THE AFFAIR...

Catholic Men Plan Meeting

Deanery Conference Slated in Delaware

The annual deanery conference of the Diocesan Council of Catholic Men will be held in Delaware March 15.

More than 500 Catholic men from the deanery area, comprising Delaware, Union, Licking, Hardin and Marion counties, will participate. The opening event will be a high mass at St. Mary's Church, Delaware, at noon. Celebrant will be the Rev. August Winkler of Granville, who also serves as moderator of the group. Immediately following mass, a lunch will be served in St. Mary's school hall.

The theme of the conference is to be, "The Layman's Participation in the Mass," which will be developed by a panel of clergy and laymen under the direction of the Rev. Fr. Winkler. The presiding officer for the afternoon session will be John T. Weingartner of Marysville.

Included in the committee in charge of the conference is James Schmitt, treasurer of the council, and Theodore T. Frericks, organization and development chairman, both of St. Mary parish, Marion. Members of the Marion Council Knights of Columbus and St. Mary Holy Name Society, both affiliated with the council, plan to attend.

News of Granges

UNITED

United Grange met Tuesday night in the Claridon School with Harold Wickersham, master, presiding. Ritualistic practice was held and it was announced that the home economics contests for brownies and aprons will be held at the next meeting. A potluck supper will precede the event.

Pomona Grange will meet Saturday in the Waldo School. A country ritual contest will be held.

The program, conducted by Mrs. Pearl Shirk, consisted of readings on democracy as well as several solos and ensembles by members of the Claridon music department.

$32,000 Accident Suit Filed Against Bucyrus

BUCYRUS — Clayton Lutz of Bucyrus is named defendant in a $32,000 personal injury suit filed in Crawford County Common Pleas Court here by Blaine W. McCall of Lakewood.

Mr. McCall charges that he suffered permanent injuries when his car was struck head-on by a car driven by Mr. Lutz on March 29, 1957. The accident occurred five miles south of Bucyrus on State Rt. 4 while Mr. Lutz was attempting to pass a truck, according to the plaintiff's petition.

Britain's first medicinal patent was granted in 1698 to Dr. Nehemiah Crew — for Epsom salts.

POWERFUL NEW PLUNGER CLEARS CLOGGED TOILETS in a jiffy!

NEVER AGAIN that sick feeling when your toilet overflows

'TOILAFLEX' Toilet Plunger

Ordinary plungers just don't seat properly. They permit compressed air and water to splash back. Thus you not only have a mess, but you lose the very pressure you need to clear the obstruction!

With "Toileaflex", expressly designed for toilets, no air or water can escape. The full pressure plows through the clogging mass and swishes it down. Can't miss!

For positive insurance against stuffed toilets, have a "Toileaflex" in your home.

Four Weekend Auto Accidents Reported by Delaware Patrol

DELAWARE — Drivers were arrested in three of the four accidents reported today by state patrolmen of the Delaware post.

Herbert Scheiderer, 33, of near Marysville, was charged with driving left of center after his auto swerved out of control on Rt. 33 and collided with another car driven by Wallace Ford, 28, of near Staunee.

Station Wagons Collide

Officers said the accident occurred on Rt. 33 just south of New California at 9:35 p.m. Sunday. The northbound Scheiderer car was demolished and the southbound Ford vehicle was moderately damaged.

Two station wagons were involved in another mishap which occurred just north of the Franklin County line in Delaware County at 11:05 a.m. Saturday on Rt. 23.

Vehicles involved were driven by Ernest D. Gilbert, 72, of Columbus, who was northbound in the right lane of dual traffic, and Harold O. Clark, 25, of near Delaware, northbound in the left lane of dual traffic.

Patrolmen said the Gilbert car attempted a left turn in the path of the Clark auto when the collision took place. Both autos were damaged and Peyton was charged with failure to stop within assured clear distance.

An accident occurred on Rt. 36 four miles east of Delaware at 5 p.m. Sunday, officers reported. They said a westbound auto driven by Kenneth H. Hovis, 41, of near Sunbury, had slowed for some pigs crossing the road when a car behind him, driven by Thomas R. Peyton, 50, of near Galena, slammed into the back of the Hovis vehicle.

Both cars were considerably damaged and Peyton was charged with failure to stop within assured clear distance.

Hog Struck by Car

A hog figured in a mishap on Rt. 23 just south of Norton at 9 p.m. Sunday.

Patrolmen said the animal crossed the path of a southbound car driven by Leo F. Payne, 36, of near Pataskala, and the driver was unable to avoid striking it.

The injured hog later was destroyed by its owner, patrolmen said. The Payne car was considerably damaged.
